SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—A dramatic two-minute battle over Soochow yesterday claimed the life of Robert M. Short of Los Angeles, the only American known to be flying in the Chinese air forces, it was learned today.

Short's craft, a new, speedy Boeing pursuit plane, was shot down in flames in an air duel with three Japanese naval planes in which Lieutenant Kodani an observer in one of the Japanese machines also was killed.

Plane Swoops Down Suddenly.

His identity unknown to the Japanese, Short's plane suddenly swooped within the range of the three Japanese craft while they were surveying the Shanghai-Soochow railway zone.

The Japanese claimed the lone airman attacked them. They responded to the fire and as the three Nipponese planes wheeled and circled to manoever the "enemy" into a vulnerable position, one of the Japanese gunners scored a direct hit.

Short's plane faltered and then dove, a crackling mass of flames.

The American pilot was believed to have been instantly killed, But a moment later one of the Japanese planes landed nearby and Lieutenant Kodani was found fatally wounded in his blood-spattered cockpit. One of Short's shots had taken telling effect and Kodani died before he could be removed from his plane.

Battled Six Planes.

While the Japanese stated Short fought three Japanese planes, Lt. Colonel Shen, commander of the Chinese air force, declared that

Washington's Greatness Is Told By Beeler

His Vision, Courage, And Faith Made Him World's Outstanding Hero

BICENTENNIAL IS OPENED ON MONDAY

Judge R. L. Hildebrand Presides As Chairman Of Birthday Celebration

Washington's greatness as a leader during one of the most critical periods in the history of any people, was extolled by Dr. L. H. Beeler, professor of history at Grove City college, in his address at the senior high school last evening, opening the bicentennial celebration of Washington's birth in this city.

Three things made Washington outstanding, the speaker asserted, in summing up the history of his life. These were his vision, his courage and his faith.

Washionton Had Vision.

"His vision has reached from the time of the Revolution to the present and beyond," he stated. "Daniel Webster, in gazing at our beautiful national emblem, expressed the wish that it could endure for a hundred years. Our flag has been flying now for 133 years, and if the spirit of George Wsahington can guide our destiny, it will fly there forever. The Briitsh offered Washington 50,000 pounds, a lieutenant-colonelcy in the British army, a great estate and a title to sell out to them, but he rejected it to remain

Chapei Front Is Quiet—Japs To Try Siege Tactics Now

By DIXON HOSTE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—10:30 p. m.—Sixty Japanese soldiers were killed and wounded on the Kiangwan front today, it was stated in a Japanese military communique issued tonight. The positions of the opposing lines were said to be "practically unchanged."

At 10:30 p. m., the Chapei front was quiet, the Japanese artillery having ceased its bombardment of the Chinese lines.

Chinese Hold Firm.

Despite repeated attempts by the Japanese to dislodge them from their positions at Kiangwan, the Chinese still were holding their own there at 4:30 p. m., today.

General Uyeda's field headquarters admitted that the Japanese army was stuck, and that their lines were no further advanced anywhere than they were at 3:00 p. m. yesterday.

The Japanese extended the battle line to the west of Shanghai when they bombed the Chinese aviation

Two Airmen Set Out For Record To Buenos Aires

HOPE TO MAKE NON-STOP HOP

Flight Of 5,400 Miles Covered With Perils, Plane Is Specially Equipped

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

BOSTON, Feb. 23.—Nat C. Brown and Edward Muldowney, ex-army fliers, enroute from Old Orchard, Me., to Buenos Aires, came down at East Boston airport shortly before 11 a. m. today, their hopes of setting up a new long distance flight record going a glimmering.

A section of their landing gear was broken in landing.

The two war-time army flying "buddies" were considerably shaken up, but were unhurt.

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Me., Feb. 23.—Roaring down the long silvery stretch of hard sand and climbing slowly above the Atlantic into the rising sun, Nat C. Browne, former army airman and Texas pilot, set off at 8:25 a. m. today on a projected long distance non-stop record flight to Buenos Aires.

Behind Browne in a "rumble seat" arrangement of his specially equipped monoplane sat Edward Muldowney, wealthy Scranton, Penn., sportsman.

Hope For Record

Although details of the flight have been cloaked in mystery, it was generally understood that Browne and his wartime flying "buddy" were off on an air hike of 5400 air line miles to Buenos Aires in an effort to break the long distance non-stop flight record of Russell Boardman and John Polando from New York to Istanbul, Turkey, last year, a distance of 5039 miles.

After two hours of warming up the motor Browne guided his plane along the sand up the beach to Pine Point. After a mile run the plane made a quick takeoff at 8:52 a. m. but Browne had difficulty in gaining altitude as he swept down the long beach.

Browne almost crashed into the board walk pier as he reached the lower end of the beach, he swung out over the Atlantic in the nick of

Japanese Cabinet At Emergency Meeting Approves Reinforcements Being Sent

Startling Reports Of Chinese Resistance At Shanghai Cause Japs To Act

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Feb. 23—In an emergency meeting the Japanese cabinet this afternoon approved the sending of reinforcements to the Japanese forces at Shanghai.

Alarmed at the unexpected setbacks the Japanese Army has met at the hands of a stubborn Chinese defense, Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese minister to China, and Admiral Nomura, commanding the Japanese fleet at Shanghai, asked troop reinforcements with all possible haste.

Session Called

Immediately after receiving the startling reports from the "war" front, the emergency cabinet session was called. Cabinet members were told that former president of China, Chiang Kae-Shek, famous military leader, was himself taking over command of the Chinese nineteenth route army to fight against the Japanese invaders.

The Shanghai crisis has become so great that there was talk today of the resignation of Premier Inukai's cabinet and the setting up of a national ministry to cope with it. This was particularly significant in view of the unprecedented

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Pa Newc observes that the row of beautiful Lombardy poplars which were beginning to rear themselves majestically in back of the Cathedral were cut down yesterday. They were presented to the Cathedral by former Governor Fisher. It was claimed that the roots were beginning to spread too much and were damaging the ground surrounding.

Although the snow was none too bountiful, a boy with a bright red and yellow sled was seen skidding along on North Mercer street before eight o'clock this morning. The sled might have been a present from Santa Claus and looked as though it hadn't been used much this winter.

Perhaps it was because they didn't want to be charged with 'hoarding' something inside, or then again, maybe it was because of their love for the biting snap in the cold air that sent a youthful trio riding about the city last night in their touring car, a-la-top-down style. Pa Newc shivered all the more when he saw them.

Right now the Neshannock creek and Shenango river are at about their lowest stages in some time.

Coroner's Jury Probes Crash

Hears Evidence In Fatal Accident On Wilmington Road Saturday Night

EXONERATE DRIVERS AFTER INVESTIGATION

An inquest jury called last night by Coroner Orville Potter to probe the death of Elmer Carnahan, Monaca man killed in a car crash six or seven miles north of the city along the New Castle-New Wilmington highway, Saturday night, returned a verdict that "Mr. Carnahan's death was accidental."

After hearing nine different witnesses and the written statement of another who during the evening inquest session, held in Alderman L. C. Mantz' office, Croton avenue, the jury retired and decided:

Verdict Returned

We, the Coroner's jury find that Elmer Carnahan, of Monaca, Pa., came to his death on the night of February 20, 1932, between 9:30 and 9:45 p. m., as a result of injuries sustained in a crash between the car driven by Fred Zierenberg, of Monaca, Pa., in which he was a passenger, and that of Miss Clara M. Hartsuff, of New Castle, Pa., on the New Castle-New Wilmington state highway (No. 18).

And we further find that Mr. Carnahan's death was accidental.

Coroner Potter, presiding over the inquest, first called Miss Elizabeth Williams, 402 East Lincoln avenue, to the stand. Miss Williams, a senior high teacher, testified that she had accompanied Miss Hartsuff, another teacher whose car figured in the collision, to New Wilmington and on to Mercer. They had left New Wilmington on the return trip at 9:30, proceeding south to this city.

The Hartsuff car had reached a point about two or three miles south of New Wilmington when the witness noticed a car approaching, seemingly ready to pass. Just as quickly as

Sales Tax Plan Faces Favorable Action In House

Hope To Produce About $500,000,000 Yearly Under New Plan

GENERAL PLAN TO BE DRAFTED

Secretary Of Treasury Mills Presents Plan To House Committee

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Adoption of a manufacturers' sales tax to produce at least $500,000,000 a year drew nearer today as Secretary of Treasury Mills presented a sales tax plan to the house ways and means committee.

After weeks of effort, the committee prepared to bring the tax problem to a climax by the drafting of a general plan within the next few days.

Acting Chairman Crisp (D) of Georgia predicted the enactment of a sales tax plan.

No Other Method.

"There seems to be no other method to produce the revenue needed in addition to that produced by increases in the income and similar taxes," said Crisp.

The committee, it was disclosed, is considering the levying of special taxes in addition to the sales tax to produce $200,000,000 a year.

Among the levies to be considered in this class are the tax on foreign oil, tax on denatured alcohol, one-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax and the electricity and gas tax.

Democratic Leader Rainey of Illinois revealed that the industrial alcohol tax is being considered. Such a tax, he said, would produce $100,000,000 a year revenue.

Akron Airship Badly Damaged Officials Say

Big Airship Will Not Be Flown To Pacific Coast For Maneuvers

SEVERAL WEEKS TO REPAIR SHIP

(International News Service)

LAKEHURST, N. J., Feb. Feb. 23.—The pride of the navy, the dirigible Akron, was so badly damaged by a gale that it will not be able to participate in the naval maneuvers at the Pacific coast next month, navy officials said today.

The worlds' largest airship yesterday was caught in a sudden gust of wind just before taking off on a flight with a party of congress members who were to inspect the craft after charges had been hurled it was defective.

Bounced to Ground.

Just as it was taken out of its hanger, the Akron was bounced to the ground by the wind. The lower stabilizer fin was demolished, and some of the fabric of the airship was ripped off.

One officer and one enlisted man were slightly hurt when the accident occurred.

It will probably require several weeks to repair the damage done to the airship.

Sharp Note From Japan Dispatched To League Today

Japanese Government In Quite Vigorous Tones Answer League Note

JAPANESE CLAIM NO VIOLATIONS

Eight Clearly Defined Points In Note Handed League Presiding Officer

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Feb. 23.—The Japanese government, in a vigorous reply to the League of Nations' council's recent note, disclaims any intention to attack the territorial integrity of China or to violate the League covenant or existing treaties.

The text of the note was made public today a few hours after the cabinet, at an emergency meeting, approved the dispatch of more reinforcements to Shanghai.

Points Set Forth

The reply was addressed by Kenkichi Yoshisawa, foreign minister, to Joseph Paul—Boncour of France, presiding over the League council. It sets forth the following points:

First—Tokyo cannot understand why the league addressed its peace plea to Japan and not China.

Second—The league note had no position peace suggestion to offer such as the establishment of a demilitarized zone, as Yoshisawa has informally proposed, but the council appears to expect Japan to lay down arms and allow the Chinese to occupy the international settlement.

Third—Japan takes strong exception to the assumption that China is willing to resort to a peaceful solution of the controversy. The reply declares there is no reason why China's aggressive measures should be condoned because of her pacific declartions inasmuch as Japan has participated "unreservedly"

Russians Urged To Prepare Army Against Invasion

Strong Red Army In Far East Urged To Preserve Integrity

WHITE RUSSIANS BECOME ACTIVE

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, Feb. 23.—Russian leaders united today in urging a strong Soviet army to be prepared to combat imperialistic aggression against Communism and the Russian state in the Far East.

Following an urgent call for military preparedness by War Commissar Klementi Vorosholov, the semi-official Soviet organ Pravda declared the eastern situation "demands a very strong red army in order to guarantee the safety and integrity of the country."

Both the head of the war department and the newspaper Pravda took the fourteenth anniversary of the founding of the red army as an occasion to warn Russia regarding her position in the far East.

White Russians (Czarists) in the Far East are "openly making plans to seize Soviet territory in the Far East with the support of certain imperialist groups," Vorosholov said. To combat this challenge, Vorosholov warned the red army to be prepared to act on short notice and act effectively.

Are Organizing.

"Both east and west are laying plans for intervention and are preparing public opinion for an attack against the Soviets," he continued. "They are organizing bands of White Russians for the attack."

Pravda said: "The occupation of Northern Manchuria for the former Czarist government would have constituted a pretext for war. The Soviet government therefore offered Japan a non-aggression pact.

"We are aware western and eastern Imperialists are planning anti-Soviet intervention, but the provocation will not succeed in diverting the Soviet union from its firm policy of peace.

"The situation, however, demands a very strong red army to guarantee the safety and integrity of the country."

REPORT AMERICAN FLIER WITH CHINESE DIES IN AIR BATTLE

the American pilot met his death in a battle against six Japanese machines.

Describing Short merely as "pilot of a lone Chinese pursuit plane" because of the possibility of international complications if he definitely identified him as an American, Shen described the thrilling air battle and the events preceding it in the following words:

"Yesterday nine Chinese planes encountered twelve Japanese planes over the Kiangwan battle lines.

"Brisk fighting followed, the planes flying back and forth between Kiangwan and Chenju.

"One Japanese plane was shot down behind the Chinese lines before the aerial combat roamed further afield and the Chinese and Japanese aviators lost trace of each other.

"Then six Japanese planes appeared over Soochow. A lone Chinese pursuit plane went into the sky and launched an attack upon them. Before his plane was brought down, the pilot of the lone Chinese plane succeeded in hitting two Japanese planes, which did not fall."

Short's death-defying dash into battle yesterday apparently was in the nature of vindication, since he previously was an instructor employed by the Nanking aviation force and was dismissed when he cracked up a new bombing plane.

Lieutenant Colonel Shen declared Short's battle was the fourth aerial duel between Japanese and Chinese planes "in which we downed three Japanese planes and lost but one Chinese." Japanese military officials insist, however, that the planes they lost in the past were shot down by anti-aircraft guns.

Japanese military headquarters issued an official communique today briefly describing the air duel, but they were apparently unaware that the victim of their airmen's guns was an American.

The communique credited the Chinese with killing Lieutenant Kodani and made mention of the fact that the "enemy" plane shot down was one of the latest and most efficient American models.

While the Japanese insisted Short, whom they identified solely as "pilot of the enemy plane," opened fire on the Japanese planes, officials of L. E. Gale & Co., a Shanghai firm by which Short was employed, declared the American flyer's mission was a peaceful one.

They said he had been loaned to the Chinese central government aviation corps solely for the purpose of flying to Nanking a plane purchased by the government.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—Robert M. Short, American air pilot who was shot down in a Chinese plane by Japanese airmen at Shanghai today, held a commission as second lieutenant in the reserve corps, U. S. Army, it was disclosed here today. He also held a transport pilot's license from the aeronautics section of the commerce department.

From a legal standpoint both his reserve commission and his commercial license became void upon his leaving the United States.

The flier's mother, Mrs. Eliza M. Short, lives at 220 15th street, Olympia, Washington according to records here.

with a ragged, poorly equipped Continental army, many of whom were constantly plotting against him. It has yet to be found the price that would have bought him. He wrote to his wife, 'as long as God is with me, the destiny of America is safe in my hands.'

"His courage was also an outstanding characteristic. It is not so hard to carry on when the bugles blow, the drums beat, and the fifes pipe their strains. It rouses man's blood to action and he can charge through barriers to victory. The greatest problem Washington had to confront were not those which were encountered on the battlefield. Cabal after cabal was formed against him, but he carried on and won out in spite of man's perverseness.

No Peace At Any Price.

"His faith was implicit. It is something hard to define. He believed that when his army went out to fight its battles that God was on his side. I hate war but there is something that is infinitely worse, this 'peace at any price' business. Peace at the price of dishonor, is the price of a coward. Christ found them desecrating the temple and he scourged the publicans out of it. The man who will not fight for ideals and honor is a coward and our flag is not fit for him to follow.

"Washington wanted peace, but when the call came for him at Mt. Vernon he left it and never cast a regretful eye back upon it. His wife went with him and was at his side during most of his troubles.

"The youth of America needs to have the life of Washington emphasized. Only 46 per cent of the people with the right to vote have been casting their ballots in this country since 1920. Do you think the Stars and Stripes can fly forever over a land that is ruled by a minority? When the majority of its people shirk their duty, the fate of that nation is trembling in the balance."

Hildebrand Presides.

Judge R. L. Hildebrand presided as chairman of the evening and introduced the speaker. He called the attention of the audience to the importance of the bicentennial celebration which opened all over the nation yesterday, and urged the citizens of New Castle to cooperate with the local committee.

Preceding the address of Dr. Beeler, the students of the United States history department of the high school staged a little play entitled "Martha and George Return," depicting some of the wonders they would see if they were to step back onto earth today.

This was followed by the posting of the colors by the Legion of Honor bugle and drum corps and several martial airs by them, including the number "The American Flag."

Other celebrations and programs will follow during the course of the next nine months, the celebration ending on Thanksgiving Day, Judge Hildebrand explained.

field at Hung Jao, five miles west of the French concession. The Aerodrome buildings were badly wrecked, three old airplanes were destroyed, and part of the neighboring village was set aflame.

Japanese planes flew over the airport this afternoon but dropped no more bombs.

A mysterious bomb exploded 50 feet from the Central post office entrance on North Szechuen road in the International Settlement this afternoon, killing one Chinese and wounding several others. The front of the building and a wide area of pavement was completely wrecked.

Casualties Heavy.

Kiangwan casualties were heavy for both sides again today. Truckloads of wounded Chinese were brought into the Settlement, while the number of Japanese casualties also was great.

United States Marine and infantry forces reported the Chapei front quiet all day. Japanese planes flew over the area now and then, but there was no bombing and Chinese anti-aircraft guns did no firing.

As a result of being turned back at Kiangwan, the Japanese were reported to now have decided to starve the village into submission.

This plan was in line with a general halt to the Japanese offensive which observers felt would be in effect until further reinforcements arrived from Japan.

Shanghai heard that Tokyo had approved the sending of more men, and expected any further general drive would be held up pending their arrival.

Many observers felt that the Japanese faced downright failure unless reinforcements arrive soon. As a result of the unexpected turn of events and the failure of the Japanese to push the Chinese back as easily as they had believed they would, diplomatic circles today felt that Japan would like to have the United States or Great Britain do something to end the war.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—A miniature duplication of the famous 1914 race for the sea by the Germans and the Allies was going on this morning as Chinese and Japanese endeavored to turn each other's flanks around at the north end of the line extending from Shanghai in the direction of the Yangtze river.

General Uyeda has called a regiment of cavalry and now is maneuvering in the vicinity of Woosung creek seeking the opportunity to make a sabre charge around the Chinese left and get behind the Chinese lines.

Horses are mired in the muddy creeks and the difficult terrain, but the cavalry will operate in close liaison with aerial observers, who will point out the breaks in the Chinese lines from above.

This is the first time I recall the cooperation of cavalry and aviation units, both of which are called the eyes of an army.

Insurance Case Suit In Equity

Predential Company Objects To Paying Policy On Life Of Geo. H. Patterson

The Prudential Life Insurance Company of America filed a bill in equity against Mary Patterson at the prothonotary's office Tuesday in which objection is raised to the paying of $1000 insurance policy taken out by her late husband, George Patterson.

According to the statement the policy was issued on March 9th 1931, being made payable to Mary Patterson. Mr. Patterson died on March 27th, 1931. It is claimed that the policy contained a clause to the effect that if the insured was not in sound health at the time of the issuance of the policy, the company had a right to rescind it, upon the repayment of the premium paid by the insured.

It is alleged that at the time the policy was taken out Mr. Patterson was suffering from cardiac asthma, pulmonary edema and dilatation of the heart, and that he died from the effect of the latter. The company therefore claims the right to rescind the policy and return the premium paid.

The rooms were decorated in colonial fashion.

The long tables were set with blue and gold china and two pieces used in the service were 150 and 200 years old. In the center of each was a beautiful cherry tree loaned by A. J. Rees of East Washington street; red hatchets and clusters of snowy like cotton completed the attractive arrangement.

The social committee members dressed like the "mammies of the long ago" hummed softly the old southern melodies as they served a delicious old fashioned breakfast.

SCHOOL TEACHERS SALARY LAW REACTS

IT IS certainly regrettable that the New Castle school board has been required by the force of economic circumstances to carry out a program such as the drastic curtailment that has been determined upon in the conduct of the school system during the coming year.

It has not been a pleasant duty for any member of the board. Neither is it a pleasant matter for the citizens of New Castle, the teachers and school patrons to contemplate.

However, it seems that as a result of the mandatory and unalterable state law regarding salares for teachers, it is the only action that will provide for a budget that will even keep the city school tax millage at the rate of the past year, let alone provide for any reduction.

From the point of view of one not directly affected by the salary figure or the loss of a job on the teaching force, it is evident that the present situation is one that is a direct reaction of the law which the teachers themselves have been largely responsible for. While the law provides the salary figures for teachers, fixing the minimum and maximum, also provides a regular rate of increase from the minimum to the maximum, there is no latitude given for meeting an emergency situation such as the present financial crisis has brought about.

While we do not doubt but that a majority of the teachers in the New Castle public school system would have been willing to have accepted their share of a small general reduction in salary, and thus have allowed the board to keep the millage at the same rate as last year, and at the same time not have been compelled to eliminate the jobs of a considerable number of teachers as is now being done, it appears that the act under which the salaries are regulated gives the teachers no option of taking such a reduction. Further, the act requires that the board provide for the stated increases yearly, and this is the matter of a sum of no small proportions in the budget for each year in New Castle. It seems an absurdity that in the face of a situation such as that faced by the school board in New Castle and practically every other city in the state, that the school boards and the teachers do not even have the right to waive for a year or so, the matter of adding the annual increase to the salary of teachers who have not as yet reached the maximum set by the law.

There is little doubt at this time but that it is clearly shown that the Edmunds act under which salary regulations are made is too iron-clad and mandatory for the good of all the teachers. The dismissal of many teachers throughout the state has been the result of the inability of school boards to make any general salary adjustments that would enable them to retain their teaching forces intact, and still keep within the budgets that the taxpayers could meet.

When the next state legislature assembles we miss our guess if the Edmonds act is not one that gets a lot of trimming and adjusting at the hands of the state legislature.

USE OF ALTERNATE JURORS

Law is supposed to be common sense, but the manner in which it is sometimes practiced is apt to make the layman very skeptical. There are certain faults which are so obvious that it is a wonder they were not corrected years ago. Thus the New York County Lawyers' Association is now backing a bill in the legislature which would amend the criminal code in order to provide for alternate jurors. "This bill", says the report, "gives the court discretion, where a jury trial is likely to be protracted, to impanel one or two additional jurors to sit with the regular jury in a case and be substituted, should necessity arise, for regular jurors who become incapacitated after the trial has begun." At present a murder trial may be in progress for six or seven days, and if one juror should become seriously ill or meet with a mishap, all that has gone before is wasted effort. Legislation such as is proposed by "the alternate juror act" has long been urged. The object is to prevent mistrials. Why there should be any serious opposition to it is difficult to understand.

Law does not seem to keep pace with the progress that has been made in the other activities of life. One reason assigned for this is that law is truth, and that truth does not change. But surely this does not have to apply to the methods which are employed in order to arrive at truth and justice.

THE "MORNING AFTER"

Anyone who has indulged in strenuous exertion knows what "getting the second wind" means. There are a lot of people and a lot of industries getting their "second wind" in a business and financial way today.

Those industries and individuals with constitutions strong enough to stand the "reducing process" of the past two years have sweated off their overload of fat, secured "their second wind" and are ready for real work.

There is nothing unusual about the experience we have been through. It was a whole lot like a great national banquet. Most of the guests not only gorged themselves on healthful food, but ate all the indigestable viands they could swallow.

Their "morning after" was inevitable. But it was so severe that many of them are still frightened of all nourishment—good as well as bad.

Retrenchment, economy and starvation diets, now being practiced in the extreme, do as much harm as the reign of gluttony and extravagance that preceded them.

The nation now depends on the men and industries that have their "second wind" and are ready to proceed on a normal diet of production and earnings.

All Of Us

Women Are Sentimental
They Take Short Cuts
They Are Right?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Women are sentimental.

Yes, they are—and every man admits it.—

They get soppy over things that men hardly notice. They get into a "state" over situations men dismiss with a little amateur philosophizing.

Bedraggled cats, neglected babies, dirty jails, adulterated food, undernourished children, graft, legal injustices—there's always a woman somewhere making a great fuss about something that she thinks is wrong. She's writing to a newspaper or she's organizing a committee, or she's making a speech or "making a nuisance of herself." She's talking to the men and making them see that they ought to do something about it and convincing them that she will not stop talking until they do do something.

There are "hard-boiled" women, I know. There are cynical, tough and selfish women who go their own way and don't care, and even the men call such women "unwomanly" and don't understand them. The men understand the "sentimental women" and like them, but they never like the women who try to be like men. . . Because men, beneath the surface, are sentimental, too—even though they don't like to admit the fact. They carry their softer emotions in the names of their wives or their sisters or their mothers and they WANT the women they know to be sentimental.

They have little use and no deep respect for women who have no tears in their make-up. They KNOW that the best part of human nature is Feeling. They talk a lot about Brain, they praise Intelligence, they insist on Looking at the Thing in a Reasonable Way. But they know that nine times in ten, the sentimental way is the reasonable way. They get around to that finally, under the disguise of thought, while the woman takes a short cut through sentiment. A man may think it's childish of women to do that a woman KNOWS it's childish of men to walk around the block when they might cut across lots.

Women are sentimental, and why should they deny it? They should be proud, they should be glad, they should boast of being sentimental—because the brain in the realm of human conduct goes astray far more often than the feelings do.

LODGE MEMBERS

Are you the sort of lodge member who only attends meetings when something special is on and you are likely to meet important visitors?

You refuse to take part in ritualistic work because you must be regular.

Then you are heard to complain that certain ones always get the offices.

You don't want to sacrifice anything to attend regularly, so why should you expect to be invited or elected to office?

In routine programs you manage to get out of attendance by some slim excuse but you are not averse to talking honors where you can get them.

Fortunately there are always some good and faithful members who can be relied upon to carry on whether you do or not

But you cannot blame them for putting a veto on any suggestion that you fill a place of honor when you are only around to carry off the cream.

To hear you talk outside your lodge one would think you are a big man in it.

But on the inside it is known that the lodge would become extinct if it were left to you to carry out responsibilities except on special occasions.

Perhaps you joined for the prestige, real or imaginary, that membership might afford; then you are not worthy of membership.

You are a lodestone to your organization if you are not a consistent member.

WAGE SLASH REFUSED, DAILY SUSPENDS

VANCOUVER, Feb. 23.—Vancouver is without a morning newspaper for the first time in 40 years. The Vancouver Star, owned by General Victor Odlum and associates, suspended publication Feb. 12.

In an explanation published in the last issue General Odlum explained that he had been compelled to cease publication because of the refusal of the printing force to accept a 15 per cent cut in wages.

General Odlum conferred with representatives of the Province and the Evening Sun, Vancouver's two evening newspapers since any adjustment in the printing scale would affect them as well as the Star. But every effort to reach agreement failed. General Odlum declined to continue operation with a non-union force.

A staff of about 100 men and women were thrown out of employment as a result of the suspension. The editorial staff, headed by J. Edward Norcross, managing editor numbered 17 men.

Negotiations for a ten per cent cut in printers' wages are now being carried on in the offices of the Province and the Sun.

GET YOUR HOME PAPER

Country editors have problems of their own and their own fine devices for solving them. One is indicated by the following fable which is going the rounds of the rural press in the South just at present:

"Once upon a time a nickel nurser sent his kid to borrow the neighbor's paper and the kid upset a hive of bees and soon was covered with lumps. His father ran to help him and caught his chin on a clothes line and sprained his back, fell and broke a $25 watch. The clothes pole fell over the car and smashed the windshield, and mother, rushing out to see what occasioned all the excitement, upset a five gallon churn of cream into a basket of kittens, drowning all of them. The electric flatiron burned through the ironing board, setting fire to the house, and firemen broke all the windows and chopped a hole in the roof. The baby ate a jar of pickles and got cholera morbus and the doctor's bill was $15. The daughter ran away with the hired man during the excitement, the dog bit a neighbor's kid and the calves ate the tails off four night shirts on the clothes line.

Cardoza Called Ideal Choice For Place On Supreme Bench

New York Jurist Hailed As Proper Successor Of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes And Declared To Be Masterly Interpreter Of Law

The public appears to be unanimous in its approval of the selection of Benjamin N. Cardozo, Chief Justice of the New York Court of Appeals, as successor to Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes on the Supreme Court of the United States. Although he will be the third member of the Court from New York, his ability as an interpreter of the law is considered sufficient to justify his selection regardless of this fact. He is accepted as a liberal, and credit is given to President Hoover for crossing party boundaries in his search for the jurist most likely to meet the needs of the nation.

"Judge Cardozo is generally recognized as one of the outstanding judicial figures of the day, one who is respected for his character, his logical processes and his thorough scholarship," says the BUFALLO EVENING NEWS, observing that he "should have many years of usefulness before him." Stating that "every opportunity for unlimited personal fortune was open to him had he chosen to remain at the bar," the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER declares that "he rejected it all in favor of the spiritual rewards he received from service on the bench," and that "in his mind the law is a living force, growing, developing, always clearing new tracts through the confusing maze of changing conditions, to reach the goal of justice."

The selection is approved," according to the NEW YORK SUN, "wherever masterly interpretation of the law is appreciated." That paper also says: "Those who have watched the career of Judge Cardozo are inclined to remember Disraeli's definition of Justice, "Truth in action." The Sun comments: "We know of no case where an Associate Justice entered the Supreme Court with greater fitness. Nowhere in this country has there been a Presiding Judge so noted for expressing the opinion of an undivided court and expressing it so clearly as to make his writings treasured by those who like to view the law as a clear and moving stream."

"A splendid appointment" is lauded by the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION, observing that "Mr. Hoover replaces a great judge and eminent liberal with another distinguished jurist reputed to be also a liberal." The DAYTON DAILY NEWS asserts: "Once in a while in this imperfect world a perfect thing happens. The appointment by President Hoover of Judge Cardozo to the Holmes vacancy on the Supreme bench will be generally regarded, we believe, as one of those beat possible events." The MORGANTOWN DOMINION-NEWS remarks: "If we are to acknowledge that Mr. Justice Holmes is without a peer as a jurist, we may also believe that no one comes closer to the high plane which he occupies alone than does Mr. Cardozo."

Voicing the demand for "judges who give heed to fresh thought and who are themselves capable of original thought," the BALTIMORE SUN observes: "The appointment of Judge Cardozo adds another such man to the bench and assures the continuance of the mental and moral force that Justice Holmes gave in generous measure so many years. With Chief Justice Hughes, who turned out to be a liberal in the sense outlined; with Justice Roberts, who is the reward of the stubborn fight against the political appointment of Judge Parker, and with the old Roman, Justice Brandeis, the new Justice Cardozo will give the nation a body of men on the Supreme Court who will supply an intellectual majority, if not a numerical majority, in favor of enlightened justice."

"Law, to him," thinks the NEW ORLEANS ITEM, "is a living thing; people are just as important as property, if not more so; and formalism is less important than the equities in causes before the bar." The PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN adds that "Judge Cardozo is known the country over as a man who combines with a great knowledge of the law a broad-minded conception of the role that it and its interpreters, the courts, must play in the development of the social system." The Bulletin also says: "Justice Holmes left a place hard to fill, but those who most regretted his leaving will be disposed to admit he has a worthy successor." The COLUMBUS OHIO STATE JOURNAL sees "one of the most popular appointments of President Hoover's administration," and as to the appointee it avers: "Cardozo is being publicized as a second Holmes, although it is seldom that one generation is so fortunate as to see two men of that greatness in the same position." The SCHENECTADY GAZETTE believes that "as time passes it will be recognized that in naming Justice Cardozo, the President has made one of the very best appointments of his term," and feels sure that "the Supreme Court and the country will benefit from the accession of Justice Cardozo."

"Mr. Hoover has scored magnificently," according to the BIRMINGHAM AGE-HERALD, which pays the tribute: "The New York jurist towers as one of the truly great figures in the legal life of the country His literary gift is especially fitting in a man who will take Justice Holmes' place. * * * * Justice Cardozo's superb standing as a jurist and as a man is recognized. Liberals will join conservatives in doing honor to a mind and personality so brilliant and satisfying." The INDIANAPOLIS NEWS states: "In naming a Democrat the President established a political balance, as nearly as possible, with five Republicans and four Democrats. In naming a man of liberal tendencies, he supplied the attitude which Justice Holmes so finely maintained for thirty years. In overcoming the objection to three New Yorkers on the bench, the President undoubtedly was strongly moved by the unusual merit of the Cardozo suggestion."

"It is a rare tribute to Judge Cardozo's competence, record and integrity," states the BOSTON TRANSCRIPT, "that the geographical handicap which would have barred a less able jurist has not been permitted to operate. * * * * Certainly there will be no more scholarly member of the Court than Justice Cardozo."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

SOME DIE OF FRIGHT.

To Lucian, Greek philospher and author of charming stories about the dead, is attributed the following:

The Isle of Samos in the Aegean was called upon to pay the extreme penalty for the sins committed by one of her citizens. The crime was so grave that Pluto, monarch over the dead, was authorized by his more powerful brother Jove, to destroy three-quarters of the Samoans.

The ruler of the Island, greatly perturbed, took it upon him to intervene in person on behalf of his doomed subjects. Upon a very effective plea, Pluto compromised. Only half would be destroyed. The other half would be spared. A date set for the commencement of the disaster. Before long, well over 50 per cent had succumbed and it looked as if Pluto had not kept his word. Once again, the island's ruler confronted the deity. "I have not broken the word which I have pledged," said Pluto. "My intentions never were to take more than half. All others died from fright, which I could not prevent."

Conditions today are not much different. Losses are suffered not so much because of what is going to happen, but because of fear of what might, but in all likelihood never happen. Facts are much more cheerful than sentiment.

UNCHANGEABLE

I hold that spring will always be
Aglow with tender greenery
And tulips row by row;
That twenty thousand years away
The apple blossom time in May
Will be a joy to know.

Ly many a door in summer time
Will crimson rambler roses climb,
And children romp in play,
And women-folks will work and plan
To get up meals to please a man
Just as they do today.

With all that men shall build and make
For comfort's or advancement's sake,
For beauty or for gain,
Beneath the sheltering eaves will nest
In spring the robins, red of breast,
Again and yet again.

Though customs change and nations fall,
Young men on pretty girls will call,
And sigh their love to claim,
And twenty thousand years away
The things which make men sad and gay
Will be about the same

Legion Helps To Place 69,000 At Paying Positions

National Legionnaires Hope To Have One Million Men Back At Work

INGENIOUS DEVICES PROVIDING WORK

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—Almost 69,000 jobs have been unearthed by the American Legion and its associates since their nation-wide drive against unemployment began on February 15 it was reported Monday. Returns for the past 25 hours alone will show about 9,000 additional men placed, Legion headquarters stated.

The report indicates that states that have made the best showing in numbers of men placed to date were Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio and Washington; in the order named.

Ingenious devices for providing work are being used by employers and civic organizations, who are co-operating in the campaign. Several communities have put road construction and other employes on two and three day shifts, in order to provide pay checks for greater numbers of men. Other cities have campaigned jointly for funds to be devoted entirely to labor wages. Utica, N. Y., has raised $1,539,166 for that purpose.

Still other communities have started new projects; Lake George, N. Y., an example, has opened up a stone quarry, organized an ice harvesting operation, and initiated several lumbering projects.

The goal in this drive has been set at a million jobs for men and women. Associated with the Legion are the American Federation of Labor, the Association of National Advertisers, Legion Auxiliary and other organizations. Their activities were said to be progressing more than 7,000 separate communities.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—Louis Cerstak, soothsayer and astrologer, "sees all and knows all."

But he couldn't foretell what a judge and jury might do to one who tells his crystal-gazing customers doubtful things.

"Tell me what the outcome of this case will be," the prosecutor asked Cerstak in Judge James G. Gordon's courtroom.

"I shall be acquitted" Cerstak replied with aplomb.

"Guilty" was the jury's answer.

"Perhaps you can fortell your sentence," the prosecutor taunted.

"Certainly. I shall be placed on probation," the seer snapped.

"Wrong again," said the judge. "Sixty days."

Claims 20,000 Speakeasies In Keystone State

(Special to The News.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23.—Pennsylvania must accept the blame for having at least 20,000 speakeasies, according to a survey on "careful investigations" by Representative Dyer, Republican of Missouri.

After completing his study, Congressman Dyer told the house of representatives that there were at least 220,000 speakeasies in the United States. Of these, 20,000 were in the Keystone state, he said.

According to Dyer's figures, Pennsylvania ranks third of the 48 states in the number of illicit establishments. New York comes first with 42,000, Illinois second with 40,000 and Pennsylvania third.

Ohio, Dyer reports, has 5,000 speakeasies. West Virginia has 1,500. The capital city—Washington—is credited with 500.

LOSE FAT This Right Way

Modern science has found that excess fat is largely due to a scanty gland secretion. Too much food which should supply fuel and energy goes to piled-up fat.

Since this discovery, doctors the world over are feeding this lacking factor. The results are seen in every circle. Excess fat has been disappearing fast. Millions have gained slender figures, new youth and vigor, in this right way. They have done it without starvation, by combating the cause.

Marmola prescription tablets present this modern method in a form convenient and cheap. They are prepared by a medical laboratory, famous the world over. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. Now multitudes of people show and tell the results. Some of your friends are among them.

If your figure is abnormal, your vigor below par, do what these people have done. Take Marmola tablets—four a day until conditions are corrected. Don't starve yourself. Don't use methods which are futile. Do the right thing now.

All druggists supply Marmola. A book in each box gives the formula and explains the amazing results. Go start now. You do yourself a vast injustice by remaining over-fat.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

One of the representative citizens of the city in the past fifty years was R. C. G. White, who prior to his death was for many years, one of the leading funeral directors of the district. He was born in Slippery Rock township, Lawrence county in 1850 and for approximately forty years was a prominent and leading citizen of the community. He was reared and educated in Slippery Rock township and in early life learned the trade of harness maker and saddler in Harlansburg, after which he worked at his trade several years in New Castle and then for two years at Grove City. He disposed of his place of business in the latter place because of poor health and went into woods, working in the coal mining business for two years. He than became a grocer and an extensive dealer in produce, following that business some ten or twelve years with great success. At the end of that time, he sold out and assumed charge of the office work of the establishment of J. J. Dean, wholesale grocer. He was elected treasurer of Lawrence county and discharged the duties of that office in an efficient manner for one term, after which he embarked in the furniture and undertaking business as a member of the firm of Offutt, White and Company. At end of five years he sold out his interest to his partners and established himself as a funeral director. He continued in that business for the balance of his life. He was always deeply interested in matters pertaining to education and served for many years on the school board being president of that body for four years and also chairman of the building committee for some time. He served for many years as secretary of Lodge of the Craft No. 433, F. & A. M. of which he was a past master. He was also a member of Delta Chapter No. 170 R. A. M. and the New Castle Consistory. He was a past commander of Lawrence Commandery No. 62 Knights Templar of which organization he also served as recorder: also a member of Syria Shrine, Pittsburgh, Shenango Lodge No. 195 and Encampment No. 86, I. O. O. F., and was a Past Chancellor Commander of the Knights of Pythias. He was one of the most active members of the Western Pennsylvania Funeral Directors Association and also of the State Funeral Directors Association. He was a member of the First Christian church and served on its official board for many years.

Farmer Finds Two-Gallon Keg Of Monongahela Rye In Corner Of Barn

(International News Service)

CHARLEROI, Pa., Feb. 23.—"Its' an ill wind——" etc.

J. R. Donier had a two-gallon keg of old Monongahela rye whiskey for 21 years and didn't know it.

A howling "northeaster" came along and tore a sheet of tin roofing off his barn. When he went to investigate he found the keg in the corner of the loft, covered with cobwebs.

Maybe it was an ill wind! Donier is a teetotaler.

Leave Umbrellas On Street Cars

Women Leave More Umbrellas Than Men Do On Cars, Busses

Are women more absent-minded than men?

Judging from the number of women's and men's umbrellas left on street cars and coaches of the local railway, women are the most absent minded.

During the past year there have been umbrellas, books, clothing, shoes and even food and Bibles left on cars and coaches and generally the owners reclaim them at the ticket office.

Hower, at present there are three women's umbrellas at the office of the dispatcher in South Beaver street. They have been there some months without any person claiming them.

MY NEW YORK

BY JAMES ASWELL

(By Central Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—People and Things: Harlem is creeping downtown. I have mentioned the sepia shows of Greenwich village. The Strollers, in West Fifty-first street, just off Broadway, offers a colored floor show and a dinner of fried chicken and yams.

The New Yorker hotel has installed individual radios in the kitchens so that chefs can relay orders to the stoves in a Bing Crosby croon instead of shouting them.

Roseland, the taxi dance hall, likes brunets when picking the young men provided as dance companions for lonely ladies. Few feminine patrons come in alone. It's usually a case of an odd girl on a party when the "hosts" are called into service.

Anita Murray, debutante daughter of the socially important Hugh E. Murrays, appeared for the first time on the stage in "Collision", produced by Lew Gensler. She's 18, beautiful, and being educated for grand opera.

Leon Gordon, the artist, tells me that if he could pick the attributes of a young painter he'd give him consummate craftsmanship first—and let the fire of inspiration take care of its own lighting.

PARAGRAPHS FROM LITTLE ITEMS GROW—

Bebe Daniels, in the East between pictures for a radio singing engagement, wears red more spectacularly than anybody I can think of. Her coatsuit trimmed in red fox explodes pleasantly upon the eye. She's slimmer and full of extravagant enthusiasm for life.

Russell Patterson is now judging his 187th beauty contest. "Ziegfeld and Carroll are all wet!" he insists. "The artists have the right idea about what a girl should look like. Down with make-up and trick lighting! Put a girl in a tub and scrub her. If she's still beautiful, then she's really beautiful!"

Iceland, the skating emporium, has an oddly inevitable appeal for visiting southerners. When you hear a large thump it's usually a Louisianian learning how—but not this Louisianian!

Barbara Newberry, the girl Ziegfeld said had the most beautiful legs in the world, met her husband, Eddie Foy Jr., at a pent-house party the other night and decided he was a mighty nice guy, after all.

Add Minor Thrills: A lovely lady to whom I was complaining about the current vogue of red finger-nails confessed to me that her toes were tipped in bright blue!

PROMOTION WORK

Perhaps you've noticed the series of articles running in several magazines describing the adventures in Wall Street of daring "bears" and "bulls"—calculated to make stock and bond buying seem romantic and glamorous, induce readers to reinvest the contents of their socks and mattresses and speed recovery thereby. One of the shrewdest of anti-depression moves.

And while we're on the subject, a clerk in one of the Fourteenth street cut-price haberdasheries tells me that an increasing number of those large-size dollar bills, long since obsolete at the treasury, are drifting back into circulation—and some of them look brand-new!

CRITIC

The gentleman across the aisle from me the other night at a particularly inane opening chanced to be Mr. Percy Hammond, the well-known drama clinician. Near the end of the second act I noticed that he was fidgeting in boredom. The play was almost unbelievably soporific. Mr. George Jean Nathan had long since departed and the other critics had followed him one by one.

Finally a brief survey revealed the fact that Hammond was the last of his tribe to remain. He was alone and not nailed down by a party as I was, and I wondered why he didn't slink away. Finally, liberated by the final curtain, I noticed that he was still in his seat. And I saw the reason why. He was asleep!

GESTURE

In "Weep No More", Ward Greene's new, best-selling novel, considerable mention is made of a village speakeasy for which he picked a characteristic name—Leo's. Now, my spies maintain, there are two much emporiums in the neighborhood described, and in both a new cocktail has been introduced called the "Weep No More".

More Than Thousand Violate Auto Laws

If the city received on the average of a dollar for every violation of the parking ordiance and city traffic rules during 1931, the city treasury would be enriched $1,138 as 928 autoists broke the parking law and 210 violated traffic rules. In addition there were 68 arrested for speeding.

What Intersections Of Streets Most Dangerous To Traffic In City?

Study Of Traffic Accidents Reveals Quite A Number In Running

Lights And Signs Seem To Be Only Partial Safety Move

While there are street intersections in the city that in the minds of many people are the most dangerous to traffic in the city, there are others which are equally as dangerous, if not more so, according to a check of the scenes of the accidents occurring here in recent weeks.

In fact the check of the accidents and a study of the situation indicates that there are several street intersections that are about on a par from the standpoint of danger to both pedestrians and motorists and all because motorists and pedestrians do not observe the regulations made for the control of traffic on streets of this city.

A study of the accidents and the reports made by participants show, in a great majority of instances, that had the regulations been observed or the usual good judgment been exercised by the parties involved there would have been no accidents.

Street intersections standing out prominent in the accidents occurring in the city and for that reason indicating that they are dangerous, include South and South Mercer streets, South Mill at South street, Moravia street and Long avenue, Madison avenue and North Liberty street, Grant and State streets, Moody avenue and North Mercer street, Butler avenue and Ray street, Butler avenue and Adams street, and Grant and North Jefferson streets.

With but one exception, the motorists and pedestrians are protected by the use of either traffic lights or main thoroughfare stop signs, yet the accidents continue to occur with great regularity at these points. The exception is Butler avenue and Adams street. Here there is neither stop signs nor lights, but the exercise of a little judgment on the part of all concerned would prevent accidents.

Accidents occurring at intersections where there are traffic lights have little excuse for accidents. One of the main reasons for accidents at such intersections is the often mentioned action of motorists in continuing on through a light as the yellow light shows up as they reach the place. A yellow light means just the same as a red light in the use of the crossing and cars should come to a stop when the green turns to yellow. The yellow gives the pedestrian an opportunity of getting a start across the intersection but not the motorist.

In the matter of main thoroughfare stop signs, the principal cause of accidents is the negligence of the average motorist in being on the lookout for the same, particularly when they know they are nearing a main thoroughfare. In some instances, the motorist is not entirely to blame because at such places as Moody avenue and North Mercer street there are high hedges that obscure the stops and also a view of the intersecting street.

Pedestrians have just as much right to be careful at intersections as the motorists and should not take too much for granted. They should also avoid crossing streets at other than the regular intersections, as they are not only endangering their lives but the lives and property of motorists using the streets.

In fact, a little consideration on the part of all persons, whether on foot or in an automobile, in using a street intersection, would do more to prevent accidents than all the regulations that may be made.

Weekly Health Talk

"There is an old saw which states: A little knowledge is a dangerous thing. And the truth of this familiar adage is no more aptly illustrated than in its connection with the human body. Literature on health and illness is exceedingly prevalent these days. Much of it is admirable. Some of it quite otherwise. In the former class may be placed the popular articles on health over the names of recognized authorities appearing in magazines and newspapers. In the latter category are to be found the neartruths of the faddists, cultists and the simon-pure fakirs. However, there is much more to do than to be able to differentiate between the two," states Doctor Theodore B. Appel, State Secretary of Health.

"For example, a mother of five children for years was an ardent student of a very excellent daily health feature. And despite the frequent warnings by the writer that illness was a matter for professional, rather than amateur attention, she unfortunately arrived at the conclusion that she knew as much about some ailments as did a physician. Consequently, when the eldest child 'went down with a cold', calling on her over-rated information on the subject, the mother treated her boy. The fact that three days later pneumonia killed him has sadly reduced her estimation of her own medical worth.

"Now the point of this tale lies in the truth that all the information on medical subjects to be found in printed popular form, no matter how excellent it may be, can not, nor it is expected to, supplant the services of the family physician, or when needed, the specialist.

"To be able to talk glibly about blood pressure, calories, vitamins, thrombosis, goitre and many other interesting subjects may be a social asset; and within reason to follow the practical advice found in health features is displaying excellent common sense. On the other hand, to imagine that the constant reading of such material automatically gives one a professional insight to curative, or even many phases of preventive medicine, is the sheerest folly.

"It must not be forgotten that doctors are not made in a day. Most of them have graduated from a four year college course, a four year intensive medical study, have had a year's hospital experience, and to all this preparation have added years of daily professional attention to the personal illness of many hundreds of persons.

"To set off against this type of training a few hundred columns of news print is a pathetic exhibition of misplaced egotism. Therefore, if tempted to self-treat and give medical advice, remember that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing, and it is the doctor's and no one else's business to attempt to care for the sick."

Community Class Closing Tonight

He has given an insight into the background of Bibical history as well as taken up the newer lessons of Christ and the New Testament.

There was an enrollment of 175 persons, representing 25 different churches of the community and the average attendance was 90.

Dr. Bennett will conclude the series with the theme of "Jesus and Giving" from the New Testament, and from the Old Testament he will talk on "Ezra, Nehemiah and the Maccabean Struggle."

Mild Weather Has Saved Thousands Of Dollars To State

Cost Of Maintaining Highways This Year Is Greatly Diminished

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—Pennsylvania's spring-like winter saved the state highway department thousands of dollars usually spent for snow and ice removal, Samuel Eckles, chief engineer, disclosed.

Ash sprinklers went into the discard as violets and Japonica bushes bloomed along the state roads.

Eckles said the only severe threat occurred in the northern tier counties where at one time this winter the department ordered as many as 500 snow plows out to clear the highways.

There were no heavy snowfalls, however, such as occurred in past winters when many state roads were open for long stretches only to one-way traffic.

Cinder piles placed along roads for winter emergencies and as yet unused will be available for next winter, Eckles explained. All money saved by the department because of the curtailment of snow removal activities will be used in road building, he said.

NOT A Clue!

SCHOOL WAS OVER — where was Mary Ann? Annoyed and anxious, Mrs. Bender looked up and down the street. The child was nowhere in sight.

Alarmed, Mrs. Bender ran next door. "Oh, Mrs Bird," she cried, "Mary Ann hasn't come home! May I use your telephone to call the school?" Not a clue from the school. As the afternoon waned, Mrs. Bender became frantic. The whole neighborhood took up the search.

Then Mary Ann came home, proudly in an automobile. "I was playing with Billy Sharp," she explained. "His mother wanted to tell you, but we have no telephone, so I waited for Mr. Sharp to bring me home."

"We have no telephone!" echoed Mrs. Bender. "But from now on we will. I wouldn't go through that again for anything!"

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Stories About Kidnapping Of Flier Conflict

Wife Of Forest O'Brine, Record Holder Of St. Louis Says Husband Kidnapped

POLICE INFORMED O'BRINE IS SAFE

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 23.—A wide police hunt for Forrest O'Brine, champion endurance flier, believed the victim of kidnapers, was hindered today by conflicting stories told by his wife, Elsie.

Early this morning Mrs. O'Brine notified police that a woman had dragged the flier into a large yellow sedan. The abduction occurred as they were standing in front of their hotel, she said.

Some time later, newspapermen who visited the hotel were informed by Mrs. O'Brine that her husband had returned.

Police said that a woman who said she was Mrs. O'Brine subsequently called them and declared her husband was safely back home.

However, when officers were dispatched to the hotel to check up on the latest report, they were informed by Mrs. O'Brine that the flier was not at the hotel.

Scientists Have Patriotic Program

Interesting Program Is Presented In Church On Moody Avenue Monday Evening

A special service of patriotic nature was held Monday evening in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Moody avenue, as a part of the nationwide celebration of the George Washington bi-centennial.

The service included an address on George Washington by Carl Moore, first reader of the local church, in which he said:

"Among all men who have attained to an equal degree of prominence, George Washington is one of comparatively few whose public and private lives are conspicuous for the presence of right and the absence of wrong. This meeting, therefore, furnishes an occasion for recounting some of his moral and spiritual traits.

"When his environment is considered, Washington can be seen as conspicuously unselfish. For instance, instead of clinging to the assured profits of his chosen profession, he responded twice to his colony's call for public service involving extreme hazards with little promise of personal returns. In later years, after having acquired position and wealth, he put them completely at risk by responding to his country's call for greater and more difficult service. Then, when national independence had been gained, but not consolidated or established, and when he could have chosen to retire with plaudits and without responsibilities, he heeded another call from his fellow citizens for a constructive service which encountered extreme difficulties due to conflicting interests and plans, incurred the malice of personal hostility and required the largest measure of patience, poise and wisdom.

"Among Washington's most firmly formed traits were his faith in God and his respect for religion, even for other people's religions. When once extremely ill he calmly said, 'I know that I am in the hands of a good Providence.' And he recovered. To divine Providence, also, he attributed his immunity from injury in battle; and at different times, particularly in the French and Indian War, his escapes from harm seemed miraculous. Evidently, also, he had a sense of principle. For instance, when the constitutional convention met in 1787 and the prospect for agreement on a plan of national government seemed remote, Washington said to his fellow delegates from Virginia, 'Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest can repair. The event is in the hands of God'.

"On the whole, therefore, it can be said of George Washington that he served God and men consistently and faithfully, according to what he regarded as his opportunities, that he did this unselfishly, and that no lapse of time is likely to dim either the value or the virtue of his service. The United States of America has been greatly blessed by having had the benefit of Washington's wholesome example and influence, not only during our countrys' inception, but also throughout its history, even to the present time."

The reading of the "scientific statement of being" from the Christian Science textbook, its correlative Scripture, and the benediction from Ephesians 3-20, 21, concluded the service.

Janitor's Salaries Are Not Changed

Little Effect On School Janitor's Salaries By New School Budget

In the revision of the budget for the New Castle Schools, a comparison of the salary lists for 1931-32 and 1932-33 show some cuts in the totals. In the matter of teachers salaries a reduction of approximately $63,000 was made. In the janitors' salaries, a cut of approximately $2000 was made. This cut was made on the wages paid the extra women who clean and scrub on part time in the schools. The salaries of male janitors remain unchanged.

The reduction in teachers' salaries total is due to the fact that a number of departments were eliminated, thus eliminating the teachers in those departments. One school, the Lawrence, was abandoned, and this takes out a number of teachers.

The actual cut in teachers salary totals amounts to approximately $87,000 but against this must be charged about $20,000 automatic increment to the teachers remaining who are entitled to the annual $100 increase under the Edmunds Act.

Mothers... Watch Children's COLDS

COMMON head colds often "settle" in throat and chest where they may become dangerous. Don't take a chance—at the first sniffle rub on Children's Musterole once every hour for five hours.

Children's Musterole is just good old Musterole, you have known so long, in milder form.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain.

Keep full strength Musterole on hand, for adults and the milder—Children's Musterole for little tots. All druggists.

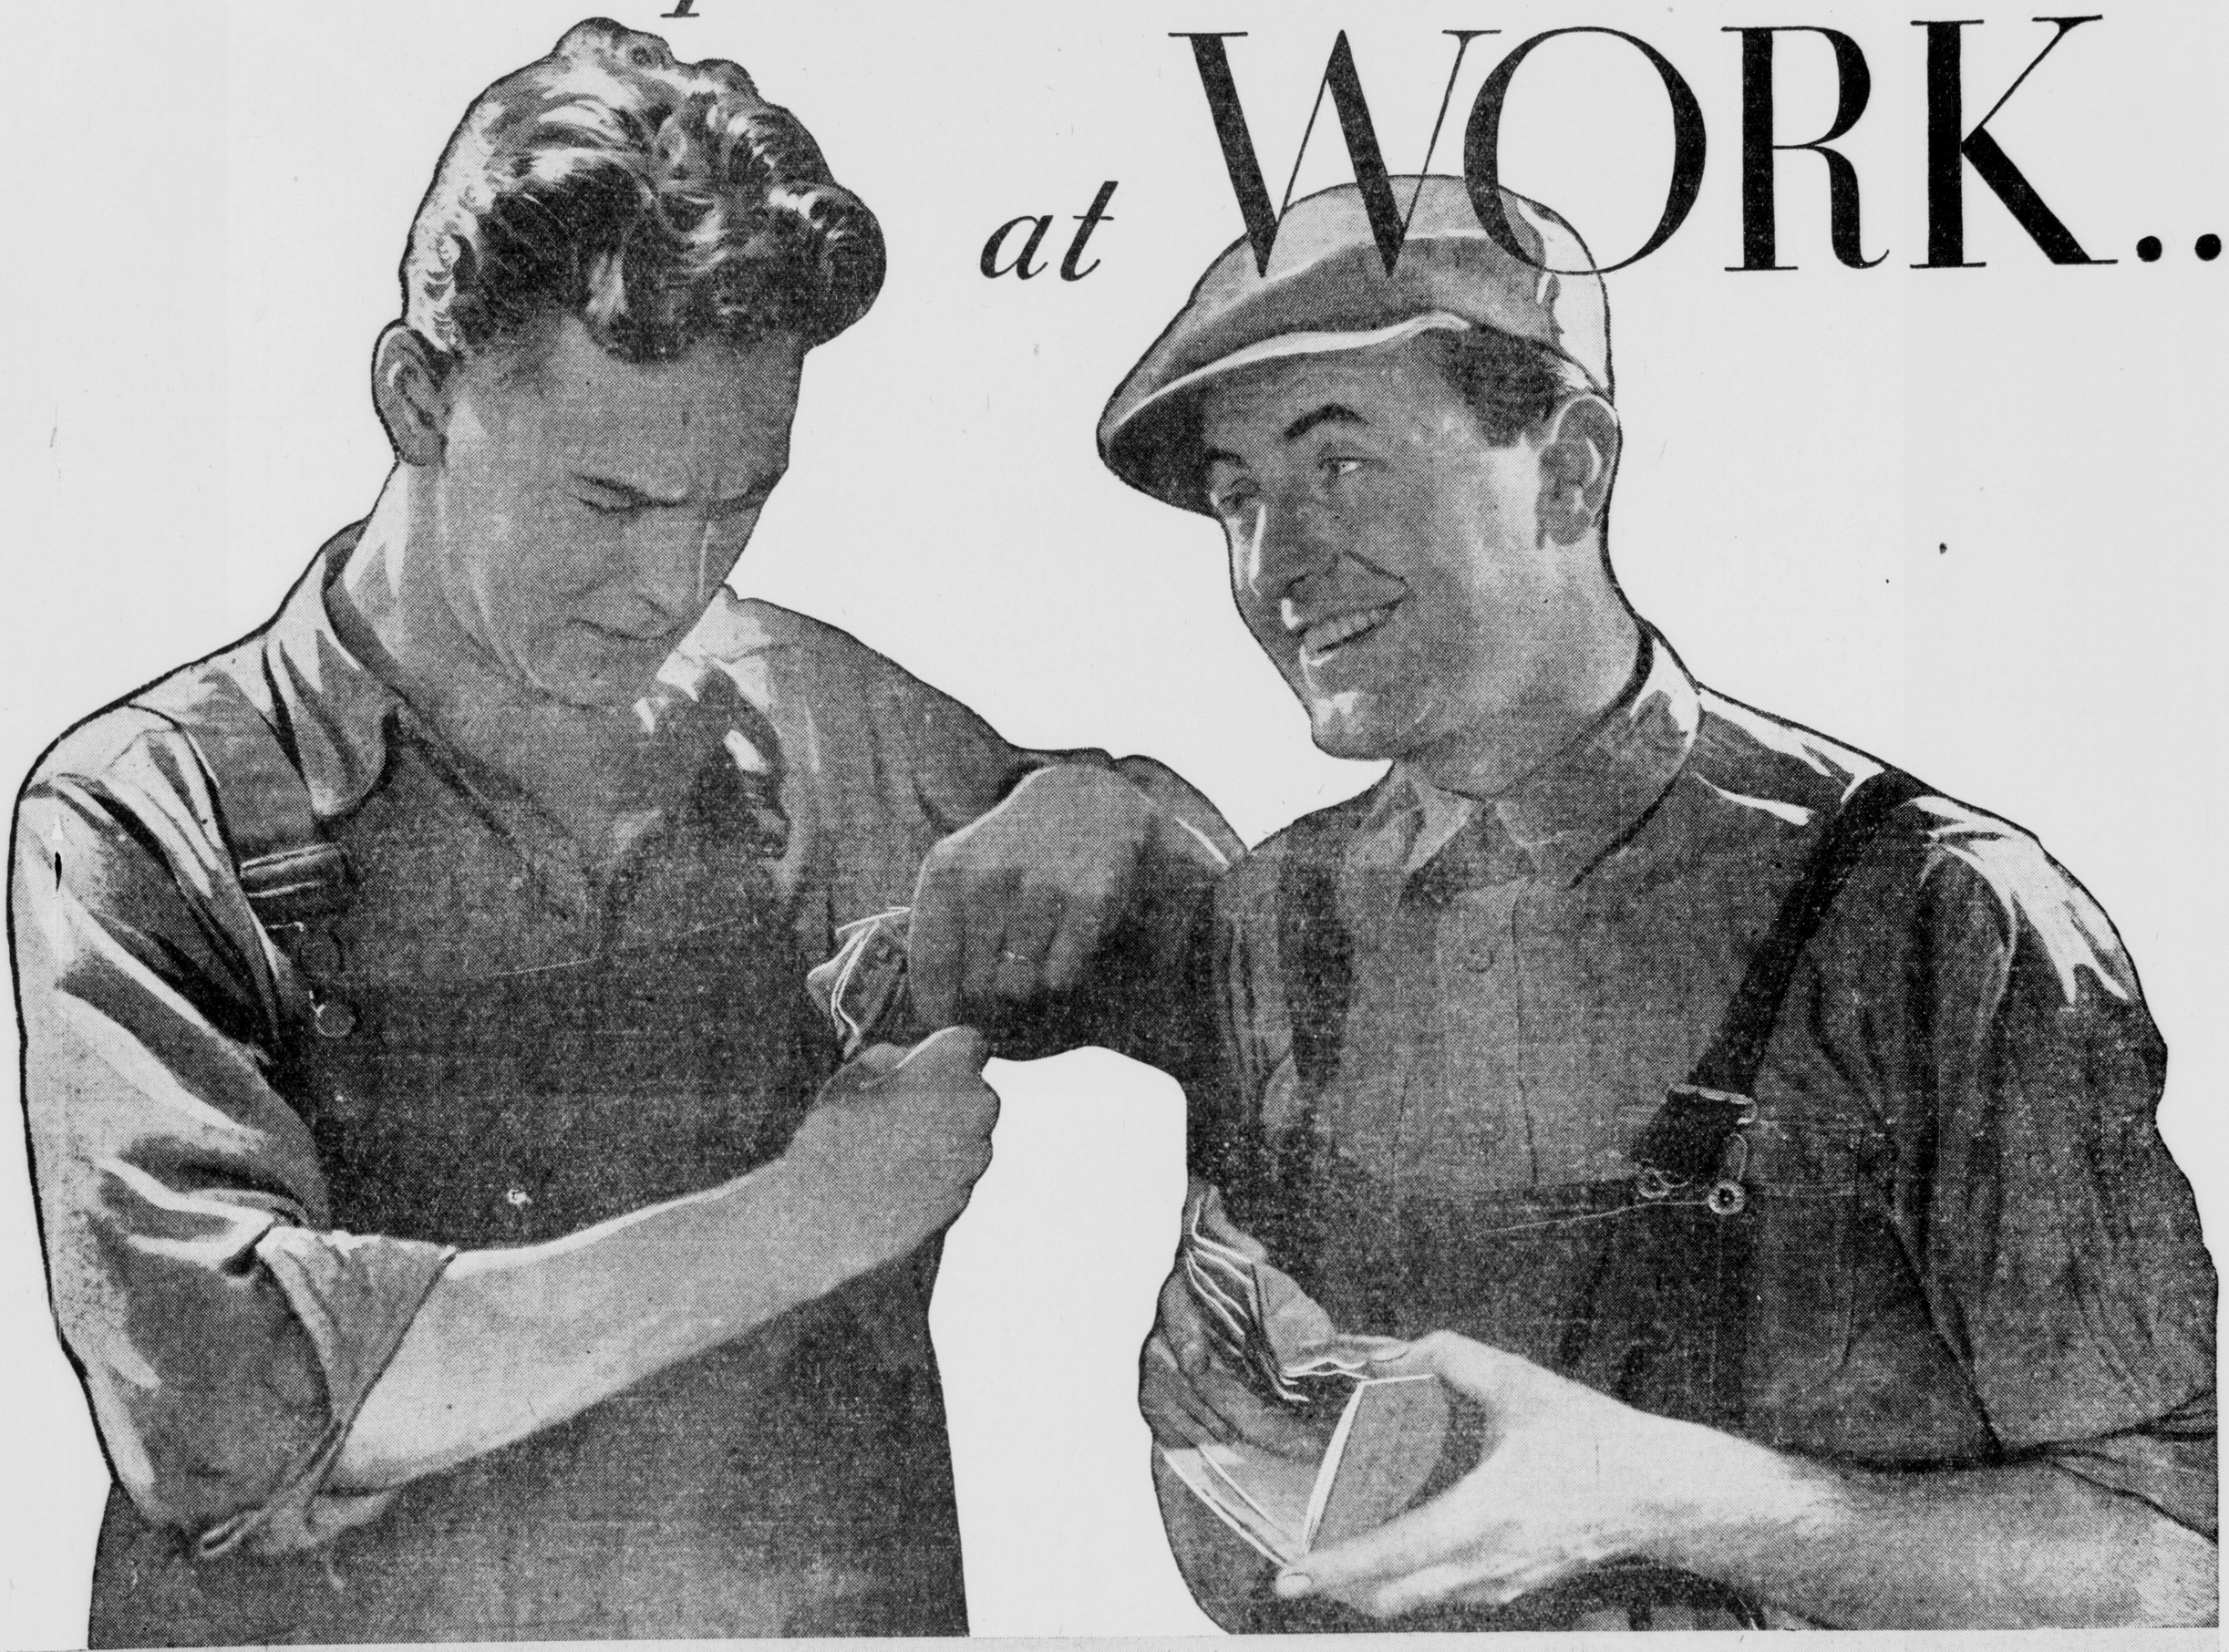
"You'll keep MORE MEN at WORK...



by keeping those Dollars of yours in circulation!"

Talk about wealth! This country of ours is the richest in the world. We've got plenty of resources. We've got plenty of money.

That's not the problem. It's the idle money that's holding us back. The dollars withdrawn from circulation that aren't working . . . that aren't earning interest.

We've got to keep our money at work . . . if we want to see America prosperous.

Money at work . . . means men at work. It keeps factories running . . . wheels turning . . . raw materials pouring in.

Perhaps you think your money doesn't count.

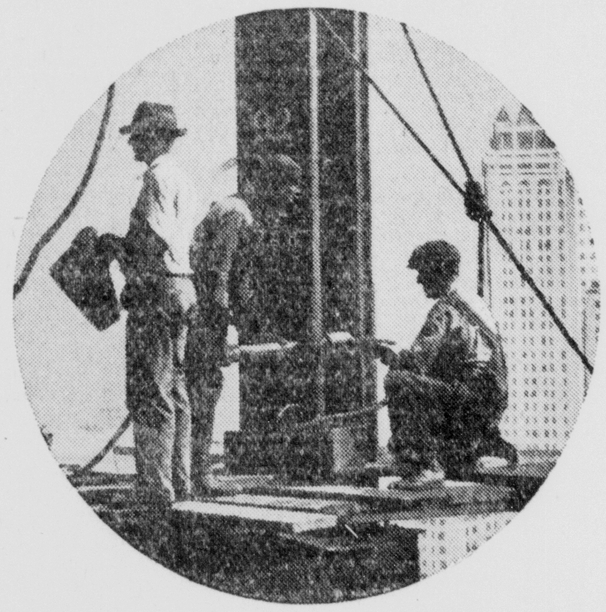
But it does count . . . however little it may be. The modest resources of millions of citizens add up to a tremendous sum . . . enough to give American Industry a great big helping hand.

Every dollar you keep in circulation . . . releases 5 to 10 for credit. Every dollar "withdrawn" is a slacker . . . working against your country in its time of need.

Talk to the ablest business men you know. Let them point out ways to keep your dollars safe . . . where they will earn interest for you and create jobs for others.

Buy what you need. Spend in relation to your income. But keep your money where it will do yourself and your country the most good . . . AT WORK!

That's the way to help America Turn the Tide.



Thanks!

The Parent Problem
by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Going "All To Pieces" Over Trifle Annoying To Child, Says Myers

Parent May Waste Too Much Nervous Energy By Emphasizing Unimportant Things, Psychologist Believes

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

"Dr. Garry Myers: Dear Sir—A year ago my eight-year-old girl wore her zippers in the schoolroom all day. I scolded her for it after she told me. Now this year the first day it was necessary to wear rubbers she wore them in the schoolroom again all day. She told me this as I was getting her off to school one morning and I 'went all to pieces. I said several mean things and it ended up with both of us crying and half sick.

"What should I have done? I realize fully that she will soon begin to think, 'I'll tell Mother nothing.' She still tells me everything, and I had hopes we might be pals. My mother died while I was young—no one told me a thing about being 'nice'—and I vowed my daughter would not be handicapped in this world by the lack of nice clothes, sloppiness or vulgar talk.

"We are in the middle class financially, but by careful managing I keep her dressed nearly as well as the rest in her class. I see results of my training already; she is in every program, has an office in the 'Brownies,' etc. But I also see she is nervous, touchy, cries easily and is far too old for her age. Shall I simply 'let go?' I need help from someone. My husband says feed them, clothe them, and let them 'just grow.'"

Answer: I can see how eager you are to cultivate good habits and lofty ideals in your daughter. No one can doubt that you have the best of motives and are conscientious.

But, Mother, don't you waste a great deal of nervous energy in yourself and annoy your child, often needlessly, by so much emphasis upon some things that are not nearly so important as you seem to believe?

Why let yourself "go all to pieces" over such an incident as the rubbers? It was really no crime the child committed. You first should be proud that she so frankly and freely told you about the matter. Next time such an incident occurs try to manage yourself so well as not to reveal the slightest emotional disturbance, but to suggest in a calm, quiet voice that you wish she would do so and so next time, and then drop the matter entirely.

You certainly do not expect your daughter to exercise the behavior and judgment of an adult, nor do you want her to be an old woman in her childhood. The chances are she needs to be encouraged to feel more care-free and buoyant. Attract many children of her age to your home. Do all you can to encourage care-free, active, romping play in her. The better tomboy (within reason) she is now the finer lady she will become later.

Stick to your ideals but be reasonable. No doubt your husband is a little extreme in his attitude of laxity just because you are so anxious and exacting. Such curious opposition is likely to grow up in any home. On the whole, I am sure he will be with you.

Good luck, and a happy family.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Two pamphlets by Dr. Myers may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Garry C. Myers, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Punishments and Rewards" and "Fear."

"Heavens—would you ever dream she'd do a thing like that?"

"WHO would dream she'd wear her underthings a second day?" they whispered. "Everybody perspires a little—it's so easy to offend."

HOW CAN she—how can any girl—run the risk of "undie odor"? The consequences are too serious. Whispered comments, veiled hints. Social loneliness.

All day long underthings absorb perspiration acids and odors. But there is one sure way to know you're fresh and sweet. Lux removes these acids and odors completely, yet saves colors and fabrics.

Play safe—follow this dainty habit . . . Lux underthings (and stockings) after every wearing.

Avoid "undie odor"—
protect daintiness this 4-minute way:

Wash this 4-minute way: One tablespoon of Lux does one day's underthings — stockings, too. Squeeze lukewarm suds through fabric, rinse twice, shake out.

Wash after each wearing—perspiration acids left in silk fade colors and rot threads.

Never rub dainty lingerie with cake soap—rubbing tends to streak and wear out silk.

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali, which weakens threads, fades colors. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

YOUR HANDS deserve gentle care, too. Lux in the dishpan keeps them white and smooth. Costs little!

Ingrowing Nails Are Discussed By Doctor

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A reader asks for an explanation and treatment for ingrowing toenails.

The name itself is something of a misnomer. It is really more a question of overgrowing toe than ingrowing nail.

In the great majority of cases the great toe is the one affected. Due to a deformity of the nail the flesh around it becomes infected. Then proud flesh, or as the surgeons call it, excessive granulation springs up and further embeds and buries the nail.

It is not always a minor malady. Infection of the whole foot and leg with blood poisoning can result from neglected cases.

Simple treatment is satisfactory in most instances. The object is to keep the nail edge away from the flesh and to reduce the inflammation and granulation tissues. Those parts of the nail which impinge on the flesh should be kept trimmed away and a pledget of cotton covered with 2 per cent yellow oxide of mercury, or ammoniated mercury, pushed between the border of the nail and the flesh. Shoes which give plenty of room to the toes must be worn. The condition must be watched and the treatment continued for a long time.

On account of the deformed character of the nail itself, the condition is particularly likely to recur.

When it becomes too troublesome to be borne or when it becomes actually dangerous from repeated infections, that portion of the nail which digs into the flesh and its bed can be removed surgically. It is a simple operation which can be done under local anaesthesia. It is not nearly so painful as it sounds. The amount of relief it affords is out of all proportion to the apparent triviality of the disease. One patient who had submitted to it under protest told me afterwards that he simply had not known the meaning of good health or complete bodily comfort before.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

Mrs. E. M. L.: "Could you please tell me in your column whether enlarged tonsils that are also diseased could keep a person underweight? I am eighteen, five feet one inch tall and weigh only ninety-six pounds. As long back as I can remember my tonsils have been diseased and have been wondering if this could be the reason I have always been so thin?"

Answer: Infected tonsils have a decided influence on nutrition, and especially in young people are likely to keep the weight down.

MRS R.: "I would appreciate an answer in your column to the question of whether an electro-magnetic belt would be any use in curing sickness, especially sinus and nerve trouble."

Answer: So far as I know electro-magnetic belts have no effect on the body, one way or the other—either to heal or to harm.

Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association Works Diligently In Campaign

RATE CONDITIONS TO BE DISCUSSED

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23—Proposed protest meetings today featured the campaign against alleged exxcessive public utility rates which had its genesis in the formation of the Pennsylvania fair rate association.

The arsenal board of trade will meet at Lawrenceville tonight to hear objectives of the Pennsylvania fair rate association outlined. Should the board acquiesce in the association's aims, it was believed another recruit would be added to the association's ranks.

Public Meeting

Rate conditions will be discussed tomorrow night at a public meeting of the thirty-second war unit league of women voters, in Pittsburgh.

Under the auspices of the Scott township civic club, Scott township will hold a rally Thursday night at Glendale with association leaders from the forty-fifth senatorial district committee featured as speakers.

Harry Wohlwend and O. W. Reselbarth, of the district committee, and state representative Matthew Dunn addressed a meeting of Brentwood voters last night. The speakers advocated a fair rate for consumers and a fair return to the utility companies.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough due to a cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germladen phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Pretty Quaker Maiden Finds Herself A Hit

Jean Sargent, Educated In Exclusive School, Leaps To Broadway Overnight In Role Of Torch

JEAN SARGENT

By MADELIN LEOF
Central Press Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—Lady Luck has made a quick-change artist out of pretty Jean Scull, who finds herself transformed from a Quaker maid at a Quaker school into a torch-singer whose new name, Jean Sargent, is up in Broadway lights with the opening and success of Irvin Berlin's new show, "Face the Music," in New York.

It all sounds like a fairy tale of success. But it isn't even a press agent's yarn. This writer ran it down.

Only a short time ago pretty, popular Jean was attending Friends' Central, the school where Philadelphia's best families send their children. Jean was stage-struck there. She starred in amateur theatricals.

Tried a Roof Garden.

Jean, one of the best liked girls in her school, found herself one of the most popular members of the younger set here after her graduation. Her forte was torch-songs and she soon got herself a job singing on a hotel roof. As this displeased her family, Jean transferred her talents to the radio, and broadcast her plaintive melodies in an alluring soprano.

Two months ago Jean was invited to sing at a party given by the Plays and Players, a fashionable organization with a flair for theatricals. Here Tom Kilpatrick, a New York manager, happened to hear her. He immediately wired a casting agent on Broadway that he had made a "find" in the Quaker City.

Sam Harris, Irving Berlin and Moss Hart, who were looking for a torch-singer for their new show, also were notified. Jean went over for an audition. She was nervous before these big impresarios, but they saw that she had "the stuff".

Berlin is Interested.

Before she knew what had happened, Jean found herself with a fat contract, a leading role in the show, and a new name, presented her by Berlin himself. The song writer further told her he was so inspired by her singing and her personality that he would write several new numbers for her.

Jean's mother was not altogether unprepared for her daughter's new career. Mme. Schumann-Heink once heard Jean and praised her voice. Perhaps opera will come later.

For the present it's a fact that even Quaker maids know how to sing "hot" songs.

The infant was found in a vineyard yesterday and, according to Coroner Walter N. Stroble, had died of exposure.

The infant, according to authorities, was taken to the vineyard on Feb. 1 and abandoned to conceal its birth.

CORONER'S JURY PROBES CRASH

they saw this car the Hartsuff machine was struck by something on the right hand side, hurling it into the right hand ditch. Miss Williams testified that both Miss Hartsuff and herself had at first imagined it was a 'hit and run' case, for no other machine could be seen.

Neither of the ladies saw the Zierenberg car over the left hand embankment until passersby arrived on the scene and pointed it out to them, according to Miss Williams' testimony.

Had Seen Flash

Miss Williams stated on further questioning that she had not seen the Zierenberg car approaching from the rear, but that Miss Hartsuff afterward recalled seeing a quick flash, presumably the headlights of the Monaca residents' car.

The car just passing the Hartsuff machine, proceeding toward New Wilmington, probably drowned out the noise of the car coming in the rear, Miss Williams said.

The Hartsuff car lights were burning at the time, testimony brought out. It was a Buick five-passenger coupe.

Miss Williams said that Robert Weingartner, son of State Senator Weingartner, was the first person who came along after the crash to point out the top of the other car in the ravine over the coal mine embankment.

Reads Driver's Story

Coroner Potter followed Miss Williams' testimony by reading a sworn statement made by Miss Hartsuff, 338 East North street, the driver, confined to her home by slight injuries last night.

Miss Hartsuff's account of the crash paralleled that of Miss Williams in every way. She estimated the speed at which her car was traveling at 30 miles. She said that she had applied her foot brake immediately after the crash, but that the force of the other car sent it careening into the right hand ditch.

Miss Hartsuff, in her statement, said she had been injured on the left side near the heart.

Monaca Man Heard

John Thomas, 1536 Washington avenue, Monaca, Pa., riding in the Zierenberg car in which Mr. Carnahan was a passenger, took the stand next. He was the first to testify for the other party. He said that he is a molder in a Monaca sanitary shop.

We had gone to New Wilmington to see Westminster-Thiel play basketball, Mr. Thomas stated. My son John, is a member of the Thiel team and as Monday was to be a holiday for him, we decided to drive up to bring him home for the week end. There were five of us, Fred Zierenberg, the owner and driver; Carnahan, Pacific Alexander, Leo Buldion, and myself, all Monaca people, in the car as we left Monaca. We had seen the game and had been joined by my son when we left the gymnasium about 10 o'clock. There were six in the car returning.

Mr. Zierenberg was driving and I was riding behind him in the rear seat. We had been talking about the game, the different plays and so on, all of us except Mr. Zierenberg and Mr. Carnahan, at the time we noticed a car in front of us and one coming toward us. To me it looked as if they were passing. I would estimate that we were traveling 30 miles an hour.

Mr. Zierenberg did not drive out from his side of the road very far, and the car ahead of us seemed to be traveling very slow. Just then we crashed this car and our machine veered to the left and over a hill.

Helped Injured Out

On further questioning, Mr Thomas said he helped take Mr. Carnahan from the car. He had been seated in the front right seat with Pacific Alexander sitting in the front center. There were three in front and three in the rear.

Mr. Thomas helped Mr. Buldion and others removed Mr. Carnahan, who appeared hurt the most, and accompanied others to the Jameson Memorial hospital with him (Mr. Carnahan died at 11 p. m. that night.)

Third Takes Stand

Mr. Zierenberg and Carnahan who are not interested basketball fans, were not taking part in the conversation about the game. Mr. Thomas testfied on cross-examination, but were watching the road ahead.

Pacific Alexander, 215 14th street, Monaca, testified that he had been invited to accompany the party. He was riding in the front center and had been taking part in the conversation about the game. He did not see the crash, having turned directly around the moment their car topped a knoll in the road, a short time before the crash.

Alexander testfied that he had been dazed in the accident and injured about the face. He estimated the car traveled 20 yards into the ravine after striking the other car. He distinctly recalled Mr. Zierenberg's reaching for the emergency brake.

Thiel Player's Story

Next to tell his story of the crash was Mr. Thomas' son, Richard, a member of the Thiel floor squad. It was for the purpose of seeing him play that the party had made the journey Saturday night.

Young Thomas' statement brought out that he was riding in the rear right hand seat, behind Carnahan. He had sen a car about 15 feet ahead but saw no lights. He said he had not been watching the road closely.

His version of the crash was the same as the previous witnesses testified.

Here Coroner Potter called Leo Buldion, 1599 Washington avenue, Monaco, to the stand. Questioned by the coroner. Mr. Buldion said that he was riding in the rear center. He had not seen the Hartsuff car top when the Zierenberg car came over a knoll. He estimated the car he was riding in had traveled about 20 or 25 yards down from the top of the hill before the crash came. He testified that he had not seen the other car pass the Hartsuff car or their machine.

W. K. Robinson Jr., automobile mechanic of New Wilmington, driver of the car which had approached the two going toward New Wilmington, also testified. He said he had been at East Brook station and was just returning home by this route.

Saw Cars Coming

He recalled seeing the Zierenberg car attempting to pass the Hartsuff car, and then seeing it disappear. Just then he passed both. A moment later, and he turned in time to see it, the crash came. He was about two car lengths away from the crash. He said the Hartsuff car probably traveled 150 feet after the crash and the Zierenberg car about 200 feet. He said that he had been driving a car for eight years. He also stated what damage had been done to the cars.

Frank Biddle, Wilmington township resident, who had been following the Robinson car some distance back, witnessed the crash He had seen the three cars bunched together. He was about 350 feet away from the crash and he could hear it distinctly.

He testified that lights were burning on all three cars.

Patrolman Heard

State Patrolman Michael Sarko was then called and testified to being called by the Jameson Memorial hospital and informed of the crash. He went there immediately, interviewing the drivers concerning their driving rights and making general inspection of the scene. The Hartsuff car, he reported, traveled approximately 115 feet after the crash and the other about 120 feet. He made the measurements later.

Jury Hears Zierenberg

Fred Zierenberg driver of the Monaca car, was the last to appear before the jury. His story was the same as every other except that he said it was his first trip over the road. He said he had not been engaged in conversation. He testified he saw the other car about 30 yards ahead and thought it was coming to a stop. He had at first intended to pass, but changed his course after seeing the Robinson car coming. He testified that he had seen the Hartsuff stop light.

When the crash came, his foot was shaken off the foot brake and onto the accelerator, he testified. Then he grabbed his emergeny as the machine plunged over the embankment. Both his brakes were alright, he said.

With this testimony heard, the jury retired and deliberated for 15 minutes. The jurymen were H. L. Remley, J. N. McCandless, Leonard A. Campbell, H. P. McBride, Bruce Ewing and E. E. Lindsey.

Blagden Admits His Kidnaping Was Pure "Hoax"

Wealthy New York Sportsman Admits That He Was Never Kidnaped

WRITES LETTER TO POLICE CAPT.

(International News Service)

MALONE, N. Y., Feb. 23. — Harry Blagden, wealthy Saranac Lake sportsman who appeared in Cleveland last week after having been reported kidnaped and held prisoner for ransom and with a story of having been spirited away from the Lake Placid Club at a time when 1,000 guests were dancing within earshot of the room which he occupied, confessed Monday that the kidnaping story was a hoax.

State troopers who investigated the case were skeptical from the start for his story of a hand to hand conflict with the kidnapers and his escape from a van in which he was being transported seemed incredible to them. However the social and financial standing of the Saranac man who had been a guest of the E. Roland Harriman's at the Lake Placid Club was so secure that troopers hid their disbelief and tried to check up on his story and apprehend the kidnapers.

Officers Puzzled

They found they couldn't verify a single point in his story and when all of their efforts led into a cul de sac of lost clues and bewilderment they were at the end end of their trail.

Monday just as troopers had about decided to voice their suspicions that Blagden's story was a fabrication Captain Charles C. Broadfield in command of Troop B, of the New York State Police received a letter from Blagden from Arden, N. Y., saying that the kidnaping story was all untrue.

The letter follows:

"Dear Captain!

"I was never kidnaped. For along time I have been worrying about the depression and the future. The load seemed too heavy for me to carry. I could not bear it. There seemed to be no way out. While I was alone in the cottage at Lake Placid the kidnaping scheme came to me. I acted on it and the further I got into it the more difficult it became. It was too late to turn back. I was horrified by the publicity and the effect of it on my friends. I used the story of my escape as the best way out.

"I should have written you this from Cleveland I know but didn't have the courage. I am sorry.

Sincerely,
HARRY BLAGDEN."

The letter was received by Captain Broadfield at Malone, N. Y., headquarters for Troop B, of the State Police. He immediately recalled Lt. H. M. Herrick who had been working on the case in Lake Placid and Sgt. Harry M. McCann who had been investigating the case in Cleveland.

Mentally Upset

Captain Broadfield said the state police would not prosecute Blagden. It was his impression and the impression of the Blagden family that the alleged kidnaped victim had been so mentally upset by financial reverses and the anticipation of future reverses that he became panic stricken and flew from Lake Placid.

Fearful that his mental lapse would become known, he invented the kidnaping story, wrote the "ransom" letter and then headed for Cleveland where he took refuge with a friend, Claude Peck of Cleveland Heights.

It was then that he called local police asking for their protection and telling his fantastic story of having been led out of the Harriman cottage at the point of a pistol and of being taken in relays of cars all the way to Cleveland.

Automobile Cases Take Up Much Time Of Local Judges

Usually Parties Involved Are Unable To Agree On Who Is To Blame

Damage cases growing out of automobile accidents form one of the principal items on the common pleas court trial lists. At the session of court just closed, automobile cases took up the greater part of the time of both judges. One of the reasons for this is that the causes of automobile acidents are peculiarly suspectible to different interpretations.

Practically every operator of an automobile holds the conviction that he or she is a careful driver. When an acident occurs there is usually a clash of opinions, as to who was to blame. It is a common occurrence for both parties to an accident to blame the other.

For this reason it is usually hard for the parties to agree on a question of who is to pay the damage. It is a very unusual thing for one of the parties to an accident to say "I am wholly to blame. Get your car repaired and send me the bill." However this sometimes happens where the damage done is only to the cars.

However where persons are killed or injured in an automobile case it is very seldom that one side or the other is willing to shoulder the blame. Even where one or both of the parties carry automobile insurance, it is sedlom that an agreement can be reached for the reason that the claims made are generally large.

When suits are filed in court the damages are usually put in anywhere from $5000 to $50,000. In a majority of cases around $25,000 is the figure. Under circumstances of this kind it is hard to effect a settlement, and the cases go to trial.

When the verdicts are rendered there is generally a wide difference between what was asked in a case and the amount that is actually awarded. The cases are usually tried before jurors, the majority of whom are drivers of cars themselves. They are consequently able to weigh the evidence, and usually succeed in arriving at an equitable verdict. In some of the cases which have been tried recently the verdicts have been in favor of the defendants.

If there was more of a disposition on the part of persons involved in automobile accidents to make reasonable settlements it is probable that the number of court cases would be cut down to a considerable extent, but as long as human nature remains as it is, there is not much likelihood of any material change.

Best Remedy is Made At Home

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Shoots Self For Publicity, But Gets But Little

Man Seeking Publicity For Himself, Decides On Shooting, Admits Stunt

GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 23—William Backus, 21, of Smithton, found on a county road with a bullet wound in his shoulder, shot himself because he wanted notoriety, he told state police.

State Troopers George Kearcher and Charles Taylor, who talked with Backus in Westmoreland hospital here, said Backus first insisted he was shot by a relative. Later, they said, the youth admitted shooting himself.

The troopers quoted him as saying:

"My wife left me because I lost my job. She told me she wouldn't come back until I got another job. I went out on the highway and shot myself with an automatic I took from the home of my grandmother.

"I want publicity. I need notoriety."

Police said Backus was injured two weeks ago stealing rides on freight trains. At that time, according to state police, he claimed he was beaten up but later admitted he had been hurt in a fall.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23.—Pennsylvania on the first day of February had in her federal-aid road fund a balance of $5,096,998.06 available for new road projects, according to figures made public today by the bureau of public roads.

On the first of the month 3,012.1 miles of federal-aid highway had been completed in the Keystone state and 45.8 miles were under construction. The balance in the Pennsylvania federal-aid fund on February first represented money available for new construction, the $1,917,622.88 for the road under construction having already been deducted.

23 FARMERS ARE ROTARY GUESTS

County Delegation Enjoys Club's "Rural Urban" Meeting On Monday

Twenty-three representative agriculturalists of Lawrence county sat down to dine with a group of the city's business and professional men as the Rotary club staged its annual "Rural-Urban Day" program on Monday. It took place at noon in The Castleton.

Farm men came from practically every point in the county and listened with the Rotarians to an instructive talk which E. J. Walter, Pennsylvania State College extension specialist, gave. His theme was the "Development of Plants."

State Man Speaks

Mr. Walter was the day's principal speaker.

President L. B. Round, who sat at the speakers' table with Mr. Walter, Dr. C. C. Green, Rotarian Harold R. McCulloch, chairman of the club's rural-urban committee; Charles Patton, county agriculturalist; N. E. Sampson, president of the county's agricultural extension association, and Secretary Carl E. Paisley, presided.

Chairman McCulloch introduced the Penn State farm expert whose travels for the school take him into many sections and climes.

He pictured farm difficulties of the modern day, particularly the insect-fighting problems that have caused farmers in this section slight annoyance of late. He spoke in one instance of the corn borer.

Grain developing processes were outlined in detail for the farmer guests, and with this completed, he said: "Now, gentlemen, you can see for yourself just what things that farmers are up against."

Other Guests Attend

The visiting Rotarians and another guest were also in the hotel dining room to hear the state school speaker. They were Rotarians Roy Neville, Sharon; John Durno, Butler, and A. A. Taylor, New Wilmington township, and Ernest Crawford, the guest of T. C. Moore.

President Round, speaking after Mr. Walter had finished his address, sounded a good-will note as a fitting climax to the farmers' meeting.

Police Department Honors Washington

A Fine Picture Of The First President Is Framed And Hangs In Office

The police department is observing the Washington bi-centennial anniversary in a proper manner as a result of the kindness of friends of the department and the effort put forth by a member of the department.

Recently, Charles A. Moore, well known restaurant man of the city presented the department with an antique, quartered oak frame that had previously held a mirror.

Officer Carl Lockhard took the old frame in hand and scraped, cleaned and varnished the wood of the frame and when the fine picture of Washington presented by Harold Hunter, secretary to Congressman J. Howard Swick, to Chief of Police C. C. Horner, arrived, it was found to fit in the frame.

The framed likeness of the first president now hangs on the west wall of the police department courtroom, where everybody may see it.

BEAVER, Pa., Feb. 23.—Within the shadow of Fort McIntosh, built during Revolutionary days, a tree, propagated from the original elm under which George Washington stood July 3, 1775, when he assumed command of the American army, was dedicated in the court house yard this afternoon under the auspices of Fort McIntosh chapter No. 636, Daughters of the American Revolution. The ceremony commemorated the two-hundredth anniversary of Washington's birth. Miss Adessa Liscomb, Patterson Heights, chairman of the old trails committee, presided.

County Home Inmate Gets Consolation From His Trusty Clarinet

Stricken by adversity many of the men and women at the county home, New Castle-Ellwood City highway, are patiently gazing into the future, hoping for the day of sunshine to soon arrive so they can pack their cares in a mythical sack and resume again the normal itinerary of their lives.

To say that all inmates at the home are there because of circumstances of their own making would not be correct. No doubt this may be true in some cases but not in all. Some of the men at the home are there because they have been unable to secure employment.

Among them are men who are known throughout the city and county. Some of them have been excellent workmen and would today, if given an opportunity, be willing to ply their vocation upon a moment's notice. These are the men who are restless and hope survives in their hearts that they will not be long at the home.

There are men who are aged and gray; men who are not so old but who suffer from infirmities. However, there is one elderly married couple and although they are separated during the day they are together at all meals and occupy their own quarters at night. Although hit by adversity they still are kept together.

There are two babies at the county home. They are the cynosure of all eyes, the mascots of the home. Innocent, cooing little babes that as yet have not dreamed of the seriousness of the road ahead. Their mothers are there.

A couple of good card games were in progress Monday. The players were both young and old. Now and then when a good play was executed a smile or grin and in some cases a shout of happiness would mar the silence of the recreation room. The games were watched by interested brothers in adversity.

One man in whom the love of music rides uppermost was found playing a clarinet in a bathroom. He went there so his playing would not disturb the card games. The pieces he played were church hymns. He originally came from across the sea and though hit by adversity he has clung to his love, the clarinet.

Asked if any of the other persons at the home were musicians, he replied in the affirmative. "I play this kind of music" said the gentleman as his clarinet rendered a church hymn.

As he finished this number his clarinet broke into "Home, Sweet Home." The door was opened by another inmate, then quietly shut. He later tried to get another musician to join with him but the latter was engaged in a card game.

The men have little to do, except to rest. When they are requested by Mr. and Mrs. Perry Snyder in charge of the home, to do any chores or render any aid, they respond very cheerfully. In fact the men who are able like to do what they can as is pointed out that the firemen at the institution are inmates.

The kitchen, dining room and dormitories are spic and span. The inmates help to take care of their own quarters. Some of the men and women were found at this task today. Most of them want to work but some are bent by age and cannot. However, those who can, are looking forward to the day the sun comes out for them.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

SCHOOL BOARD ACTION

To the Editor of The News:

I realize that the action of the school board of the city of New Castle in taking the first big step backward in the history of local education could only have been taken with the most sincere regret. I realize also that to many well meaning persons who are themselves the product of an older day the sacrifices occasioned by the present decision have little significance. Yet if any weight is to be given to the tendency of intelligent thought in modern education one cannot escape the conclusion that discontinuance of the enumerated activities will represent a loss, intangible it is true, but nevertheless as real as the economies that result from the action and in the long run probably even more vital.

I have no criticism of the board. They were faced with a difficult problem and their decision, while uninspired, was at least courageous. I take this means of raising but a single question. It is not whether the community can afford such scholastic mayhem but can the school system itself, by the system I mean its personnel, can they afford it?

It takes no gift of divination to read from the figures of the budget that if it had not been for the provisions of the Edmunds act, legislation sponsored primarily in the interest of the teachers, this crime against our school system and the youth of the city could have been easily avoided.

Teachers' salaries for the current year of 1931-32 are given in the printed budget as $677,145. The equivalent of a 15 per cent flat decrease from this item would amount to $101,571.45. Add to this the $20,000 of automatic increase under the act as stated elsewhere in the article and you have a total saving of $121,571.45—enough to make unnecessary the sacrifice of a single feature of the present school system and to permit a half mill reduction to the taxpayers as well.

It is true the board could not make such a cut. The Edmunds act prevents it. But the the Edmunds act does not prevent the teachers and principals of the city who have benefited by the years of prosperity from coming forward now with a unanimous agreement and request that they be permitted to donate 15 per cent of their income to the common weal—that the system, in which all worthy teachers take such individual pride, may be saved and that the taxpayers' load in this present emergency may be somewhat lightened.

If this seems too much to ask I believe a little reflection will convince even the teachers that such a contribution would be no more than equivalent to the actual reduction in living cost, and as a consequence no loss at all in real wages. I can only add that I know of no taxpayer, with the possible exception of a few salaried employes, who has not taken himself a greater decrease in income than 15 per cent during the past year. Under these conditions on offer of such voluntary contribution on the part of the teachers could in no sense be construed as an act of charity toward the community.

Lest it be thought that as a resident of Neshannock township I have little personal interest in this question, I might state that I am also the owner of improved real estate in the city of New Castle upon which I expect to pay taxes for 1932.

WILLIAM J. CALDWELL.

NOW SCIENCE TELLS WHY BRAN IS SO GOOD FOR HEALTH

Kellogg's ALL BRAN Has "Bulk" and Vitamin B; Also Healthful Iron

By using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, millions of people have overcome common constipation, and the headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so frequently result.

New laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN supplies two things needed to overcome temporary and recurring constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines. Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently it clears the intestines of wastes.

Further experiments prove ALL-BRAN provides twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Eat this delicious cereal and avoid pills and drugs. They cause artificial action, and often lead to harmful habits.

Try two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily — sufficient to overcome most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN has a delicious, nut-sweet flavor. Enjoy as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in making fluffy bran muffins, breads, omelets, etc. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Arrange For Coming Of Billy Sunday To The Cathedral On Evening Of March 2

The New Castle Ministerial Association met Monday morning in the Y. M. C. A. for the regular bi-weekly session, which was in the form of a patriotic program.

Rev. W. H. Downing, pastor of the Mahoning Methodist church, gave a splendid resume of the life of Abraham Lincoln. The paper on George Washington had been prepared by Rev. C. W. Johnstone, but illness prevented his appearance.

The tentative plans were made for the appearance of Billy Sunday at the Cathedral on the night of March 2.

March 14 will be the date of the next meeting, at which time the "Problems of the Rural Churches" will be discussed. The ministers of the various rural churches will be guests at this time.

A&P Food Stores — ESTABLISHED 1859 — WHERE ECONOMY RULES

When the founder of A&P sold his first pound of tea, he had the idea which made us successful—to eliminate unnecessary profits taken on food between the garden and the grocery shelf. Thus, tea which sold for $2 and $3 a pound was cut to $1 per pound. Today this direct buying and small profits applies not only to tea, but all of the 1200 items the A&P sells.

Divers Recover Gold Ingots At Cherbourg

(International News Service)

CHERBOURG, France, Feb. 23.—Divers this afternoon succeeded in recovering from the bottom of Cherbourg Harbor $200,000 in gold ingots which dropped into the water when a crane cable broke as they were being unloaded from the S. S. Berengaria.

Seventeen additional ingots, valued at $120,000, still remained on the bottom when the divers temporarily abandoned their efforts.

The gold was part of a load of 400 barrel of gold ingots, valued at 600,000,000 francs (about $24,000,000) being unloaded by a tender and destined for the vaults of the Bank of France. They had been brought from the United States.

Six barrels, containing 8,000,000 frances worth of gold, went to the bottom when the cable broke. Three of them crashed on the docks and scattered gold among startled passengers.

The movement is sponsored by the American Legion, the American Federation of Labor, and the Association of National Advertisers.

Plan Centralized Marketing Place For Securities

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—In order that depositors of closed national banks may obtain the maximum of return, Comptroller of the Currency Pole has arranged for a centralized marketing of bank securities in New York.

Receivers of closed banks may arrange with the New York representative of the comptroller to dispose of the banks' securities. The work will be conducted in cooperation with the New York Federal Reserve bank.

Pole explained this will avoid the general dumping of securities by receivers and permit a maximum return on holdings of the closed banks.

Another Claimant For Reward Money

Joseph Chapman Relates Thrilling Experience With Irene Schroeder And Glenn Dague

Joseph Chapman of Florence, Ariz., has filed a claim to a part of the Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague reward, the claim being presented through Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, one of the attorneys for the commonwealth in the prosecution of Irene and Dague for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul.

Chapman says that on the 13th of January, 1930, he stopped at the service station of Branaman Bros. in Florence, Ariz. He was informed that a woman had just stopped her car and asked for some free gasoline, claiming that she was broke. The woman was sitting in her car not far away from the station.

Chapman says that he went to her and asked to see the title of her car. She told him that the car belonged to her brother in Yuma, Ariz. Chapman informed her that they could go to the sheriff's office and find out if it were true.

Just then a man, whom Chapman afterwards learned was Glenn Dague, came up and asked Chapman what he meant by talking to his wife. Dague was accompanied by a man named Vernon Ackerman. As Chapman and Dague were arguing Ackerman is alleged to have reached in his pocket for his gun. Chapman says he made a grab for it and a tussle ensued. Another man who was with Ackerman grabbed the gun and stuck it back in Ackerman's pocket.

Irene then drew a gun and forced Chapman into the car. Dague got in and they drove off. Chapman says that he was struck over the head with a blackjack and otherwise abused in the car. He said that Irene and Dague did not know the road and he circled them around over the prairie in the hope that officers would come. Finally, after driving nearly eight hours, they brought up at Chandler, Okla.

As an officer came up Irene and Dague both drew guns and held them against Chapman's side. He says that he grabbed both guns and a fight ensued, during which he received a buckshot from one of the guns, presumably that of the officer, and another bullet in his head. He was laid up in the hospital for a long time, incurring considerable expense. He believes that it was partly through his work that Glenn and Irene were apprehended, and he wants part of the reward.

No time has yet been set for a hearing on the distribution of the reward, which amounts to $3,200.

Expect 200 Will Attend Dinner

Organization Day Event For Troop F To Draw Crowd

Acceptances received by Louis B. Round, chairman of the Organization Day Dinner of Troop F, 103rd Cavalry, indicate an attendance Thursday evening, February 25 of somewhere between 175 and 200 including the troop membership.

Organization Day is an anual observation by every unit of the Pennsylvania National Guard and replaces the old Mobolization Day. On that day the unit is turned out in full strength, the civilian population joins with them, and for a time the civilian attention is turned to the condition and development of the military.

This dinner on Thursday evening is not a dinner at which some thing is to be asked of the civilian population. It is merely a show of strength and efficiency of the military unit. For the dinner this year, Col. Eric Fisher Wood, soldier, architect and executive, will be the speaker of the evening.

Col. Wood was a student in the Ecole de Beaux Arts in Paris when France entered the war in 1914. He joined the French forces and served with them until 1917 when the United States entered. He then left the French forces and came home to enlist in the American forces. He was assigned to the 332nd infantry regiment at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, O., and went overseas with his regiment.

Arriving in France he was assigned to General Headquarters at Chaumont because of his knowledge of conditions and his fluency of French. Returning from the war he established himself as an architect in Pittsburgh and has designed some outstanding buildings. Among them is the Harding Memorial in Marion, O., the Koppers Building in Pittsburgh and scores of others.

He is a cultured gentleman, an interesting speaker, and back of it all has a military history that is brilliant.

A pessimist says the American people these days won't respond to leadership. That we shall never know until somebody tries displaying some.—The Nashville Banner.

Must Modernize Pioneer Radio Set

Grove City College Authorities Are Confronted With Problem

GROVE CITY, Pa., Feb. 23.—On and after June 22nd of this year the radio commission of the United States government will insist that the fluctuation of any station over their frequency allotment shall not be in excess of 50 kilocycles.

The frequency of the station is now 1310 kilocycles by authority of the radio commission states Dr. H. W. Harmon who is in charge of the station and is the builder of the present set.

The station must be moved from its present location to the new science hall states Harmon. A studio has been equipped at the new hall that is absolutely sound proof.

Westminster Leads Tri-State Floor League

WESTMINSTER TRIMS GENEVA 37 TO 19 IN CONFERENCE BATTLE

Covenantors Give Up Supremacy In Tri-State To Fighting Titan Band

Brownlee And Grahame Provide Fireworks In Lopsided Game Monday Night

All question as to the supremacy in the Tri-State Conference was settled before a crowd of perhaps 2,500 fans who packed the spacious Beaver Falls High gym last night and watched the towering Titans of Westminster hand Geneva College quintet a 37 to 19 setback.

It was the second win of the year for the Westminsterites over the Covenantors. District honors can also be claimed by the Lawthermen. Few teams will dispute the superiority of the Blue and White.

Geneva was the only team that stood in the way of the Westminster team in their dash to another Tri-State championship, and after 40 minutes of playing last night the Covenantor threat was reduced to a whisper.

It was a fighting Westminster team that took the floor last night. The Geneva team had threatened dire things before the game and the Lawthermen were just as determined. Cliff Aultman started the proceedings for the Genevians by sinking a field goal when the game was about a minute old, and this was the only time the Geneva team held the lead. Kocheran and Brownlee got baskets in rapid succession for the United Presbyterians giving them lead that was to be theirs for as long as the game lasted.

Titans Take Lead

Not long after the first half started Westminster held a 19 to 2 lead and the hopes of the Geneva College student body that their favorites would pick up steam failed. At the end of the first half Westminster led 25 to 6. Geneva tried hard, but the Loeffler men could not tally. Of course against Rice and Siljander and Brownlee they had very few shots at the hoops, while on the other hand the Titans seemed perfectly at ease and rolled in field goal after field goal.

Art Grahamme was the only Geneva player able to fathom the Westminster defense. He scored two field goals for the Geneva boys the first half.

Geneva Rally Halted

Soon after the second half got under way the Covenantors started a rally that netted them five points, but after the Titans called time out and got themselves collected, the Geneva threat was bagged.

Geneva's scoring for the time being was halted, and then the Geneva boys took it upon themselves to get rough and wooly and the Titans returned the compliment. Westminster converted many a Geneva foul into points, via the foul line. Captain Phil Rice in the game up to his ears was put out of the fray for personal fouls. Blaner took Rice's place in the lineup. Geneva got very little satisfaction out of roughing up the Titans.

Westminster rules the waves of the Tri-State. There is hardly a team that will dispute that fact and even if the Grovers do think differently, they will have a tough time proving their point at Westminster next month.

Brownlee-Grahame Star

The two outstanding stars of the game were Harry "Bud" Brownlee and Art Grahame. Both boys scored thirteen points. Brownlee did the bulk of his scoring in the first period with five field goals. Grahame had all but six of the points awarded the Genevians. By the way any team that holds Geneva to five field goals on their own floor must have a cast-iron defense. Rice in additions to playing a bangup game at guard added nine points to the Titan count, as did Mike Kocheran. Coach Lawther used a number of subs and they looked good although they didn't do much scoring. They saw to it that the Geneva team didn't do any tallying either.

Cream Of Crop

The fans who witnessed the game were satisfied that the Coach John L. Lawther, has the cream of the crop in the Tri-State and the district honors might just as well be handed over to the Titans.

Just one Tri-State or district game has been lost by the Titans and that was a one-point setback at Grove City. Since then the Lawthermen have taken every team with ease and have compiled a wonderful scoring record. Seventy six points against Thiel last Saturday attests to that fact.

Allegheny at Meadville Wednesday night will be the next game for the Westminster team. Bethany and Grove City remain on the 1932 card, and both games are at Westminster's gym.

Max Baer Beats Old Tom Heeney

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—Is Max Baer good or bad or indifferent?

Baer was the victor in seven of the ten rounds against Tom Heeney last night but he went into the ring as much as a 5 to 1 choice and 5 to 1 favorites are supposed to at least "get" their man.

At the end of the tenth Heeney was still in rather an unruly mood.

He actually out-sparred Baer in the first three rounds, much to the surprise of the 7,500 fans.

Baer tried desperately to score a knockout and at the end of the fourth and fifth rounds nearly succeeded when right hand smashes to the chin rocked Heeney.

Old Tom turned in a heady fight. He kept pressing and staying in closer to Baer and as a result Maxie got few chances to spear him with direct hits.

Presbyterians Upset Wesley

Wampum Five Comes Back In Second Half To Win Game

CENTRAL CHRISTIANS TRIM SACRED HEARTS

Presbyterians of Wampum last night at the Y upset the basketball dope bucket when they dished out a 22 to 19 defeat to the Wesley M. E., winner of the first half of the A division of the church basketball league.

The Wesley had a fat lead at the first half but the Presbyterians dazzled the first half champions. They rolled enough baskets and fouls thru the hoops to not only outscore Wesley in the second half but to win the setto.

In the other A division contest Central Christians captured a game from the Sacred Hearts 20 to 16 and in the lone B loop game Sacred Hearts B made up for the A team's defeat by lashing Temple Israel 30 to 22.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Charles Guillium expects to be retained as an umpire in the Middle-Atlantic league which will consist of eight teams this season. The roster will be made up of Beckley, Huntington, Charleston, Clarksburg, Wheeling, Va., Cumberland, Md., Youngstown, O., and Johnstown, Pa.

Martin Thornton one of the early fistic promoters of this city is spending a week here. He recalls the days of a score and 10 years ago when he promoted here. He is here from Wilkes-Barre and reports there is a multitude of fairly good fighters in the hard coal section.

America's foremost trotters and pacers will be driven in pursuit of $70,000 in purses at the North Randall Grand Circuit speedfest June 27 to July 9. Twelve stake offerings having an aggregate purse value of $41,200, in included in the program which will be marked by the revival of the free-for-all pace.

One boxer who came here unheralded and departed with a reputation established was recalled today by a glimpse at dust covered cartoons drawn by Jack Bryan the Pen and Ink Man, now of the P. R. R. system. One cartoon shows the likenesses of Ray Newton and Tony Herrera. Newton was a star in Pittsburgh rings. Herrera was a torhado in the middlewest but practically unknown east of Chicago. He was given an assignment against Newton, knocked Ray a-kicking, duplicated the feat at Washington, Pa., and straight-away walked into the Big Money. Pictured on the same cartoon is the caricatures of Mickey Solomon and Johnny Carey. Carey won from Solomon. However, Mickey is going along yet while Carey has quit the ring. Another shows Jackie King of Wampum with his right cocked for action. He was docketed against Bobby Collura of Pittsburg. Both have left the game.

Bryan also drew a cartoon of Steve Smith and Andy Martin but his quip "These lads will draw a full house" didn't run true to form. In fact they fought to a small crowd, despite the fact Andy beat Eddie Shea at Boston a few nights earlier. Steve upset the dope here by getting the decision over Andy who injured a hand.

The Pen and Ink man drew another cartoon and penned that: These flyweights, swarthy of skin, will thrill fans with a battle crammed with action from bell to bell." The swarthy skinned flyweights drawn by Bryan were none other than Frisco Grande and Luis Carpentero. Jack never was required to make apology for what he penned because they did make good. It was the first time two Filipinoes ever met here. They fought toe to toe, head to head for 10 rounds. They fought "themselves in and fought themselves out." The presence of a referee wasn't required. They did not pay any attention to him. It was a great fight and a draw.

It was one of those Brother Vs. Brother affairs. Each strove to win. Neither wanted the other to be in a position to send a cable to Manila stating: "I beat Grande" or "I won from Carpentero." The 10 round battle was such a gruelling affair neither flyweight apparently ever got over the fight.

Ernie Schaaf and Willie Stribling will be soon flinging punches and Schaaf can leap farther up the ladder by stopping Stribling. If he turns the trick in the early rounds he may get a chance to mingle with Max Schmeling providing Max climbs over Jack Sharkey. It took Max 15 chapters to lay out Stribling at Cleveland.

Myland's legs and Coen's arm. They featured in almost every game in which the pair participated years ago. Carl Myland could cover a couple of fields and make a good job at it and the same applied to Coen. Coen could hurl 'em straight as a die to home plate and Myland's speed in the field would have been hard to beat.

Both played in the field for the I. A. A. against the B. & O. in 1919. Harold Haid pitched and Gus Thompson caught. It wasn't a poor team, either. Here's the lineup: Keelan, ss.; S. Jones, 3b; Porter 1b; Myland cf; Coen, lf; Ross, rf; Thompson, c; Haid, p and Marcella, 2b.

Butler Has Good Record

Only Two Defeats Mar Splendid Record Of Butler Basketball Team

RESERVED SEATS ARE BEING ADDED

Coach Bridenbaugh Orders New Castle Through First Drills

Boasting two of the best floor records in the district, the New Castle high Red and Black quintet and Butler high will have their marks in jeopardy, Friday night, when the teams meet on the George Washington junior high hardwood for the championship of Section Three. Today Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner announced that the game will start promptly at 8:00 o'clock.

Every reserved seat in the gym has been sold and the local manager is preparing to have more seats placed downstairs. Indications show that the Washington floor will be filled with adherents of both combinations. Butler reports state that a big delegation will be present. Several years ago when New Castle and Butler met at the Pitt stadium in a play-off for the sectional laurels, Butler turned out 1,800 fans. This is a record that hasn't been surpassed at Pitt.

An order arrived here recently for every reserved seat in the gym but Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner was forced to turn down the Butler order. There are only 250 seats downstairs. About 150 more seats are being added. The seats in the balcony will be sold the night of the game. First there, first served. If you anticipate watching this game you may have to sacrifice your supper. There will be no preliminary game.

Two training camps, the Butler floor and George Washington hardwood were the scenes of stringent drills, Monday night, which marked the opening day of training in preparation for the game. Coach Regis Heinzer ordered his squad through a vigorous workout as did Phil Bridenbaugh, Ne-Ca-Hi mentor. The passers will practice daily until Thursday afternoon when the training period culminated with a light rehearsal.

The New Castle cagers looked fair Monday afternoon following their 30-19 triumph over Rochester, Friday. A strenuous drill is on tap for tonight at the Washington floor. Coach Bridenbaugh is using the same lineup which started against Rochester in the rehearsals. Andy Lasky is being used at center, John Uram and John Teplica are taking care of the forward berths and Nick Uram and Bus Reiber are at guards.

Butler has compiled a splendid record. Only two defeats mar the mark set by the Butler countians. New Castle was able to upset them. That loss was a 16-14 affair. Ford City was the other five to administer a defeat to Butler. In the league the Heinzermen has won eight tussles and lost one. New Castle has accomplished the same feat. Scott and Beaver Falls trimmed New Castle this season

If records mean anything these two aggregations have something to talk about. Butler's big threat is Keck who is the leading scorer in the league. This versatile player must be checked Friday night. Lobuono is another good ball tosser. He plays center and will oppose Lasky, elongated local center.

In the district these two combinations represent the essence of smooth ball clubs. From the followers standpoint the fan bugs are anxiously awaiting to see which will represent the Section Three race in the W. P. I. A. L. tourney.

CRITZ FAVORS ARMY

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES Feb. 23—The condition of Hughie Critz's throwing arm, which make or break the New York Giants as a national League pennant contender this year, remained a mystery today following the diminutive second baseman's first workout here. Fearful of straining the arm by premature exertion, Critz refused to make the acid test and threw the ball easily with a side arm motion.

Ends DANDRUFF Overnight!

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. Then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or thre more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

New Circular Track At Madison Square Garden Proves Fastest In Country

GENE VENZKE IS EASY WINNER

By FRANK G. MANKE
International News Service Sports Editor

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—None of the record smashing laurels over the new circular track at Madison Square Garden is to be taken as occasion for prolonged cheering over the suddenly acquired fleetness of American Trilby whirlers.

This statement is not made to discredit the gallant efforts of those who have hung up new marks during the current snow flakeless season.

Track Is Fast.

It merely is to point out that the new track, installed only this year, is the springiest and fastest in the world. These who expert in such matters are of the opinion that it will prove to be at least four seconds to the mile faster than any other and that either this year or next the mile will be stepped in 4:08 or better.

The old record of 4:12 was hung up in March, 1925, by Paavo Nurmi, one of the greatest runners the world has known. It was tied ten days later by Joie Ray. Since then perhaps 100,000 efforts have been made to crack it and all failed until the Garden put in its new saucer this season.

And then bang, bang.

Gene Venzke Wins.

Gene Venzke, a splendid miler, running over the track for the first time, galloped home in 4:11 1-5 and was not pressed. Leo Lermond, finishing second, also ran in better time than had Nurmi and Ray.

About ten days later, Venzke amazed the world with 4:10 in Madison Square Garden. Three men trailing him, and badly beaten, arrived home in close to 4:12.

Venzke ran the mile in the A. A. U. games last night in 4:15.

Venzke loafed through the last eighth of a mile to beat the second place William McNiff by a matter of nine seconds.

Even the industrious walking brigade found the saucer a soft touch. Michael Pecora, of Brooklyn, heretofore rated as only so-so among the heel-and-toe people, scuttled the mile in the new world's record time of 6 minutes 27 1-5 seconds, breaking the figures of 6.28 established in December, 1911, by G. H. Goulding.

Joe McCluskey, of Fordham University, hop skotched the two mile steeplechase in 9:46 4-5. The record was 9:55 2-5, made in 1929 by Eino Purje.

New World's Record.

McCluskey's best time over the old track was plenty slower than Purje's best. But when allowed to ramble along the chain-lightning saucer, McCluskey promptly knocked 8 3-5 off the world's record and bettered his own best by something more than ten seconds.

Dale Letts came from far back in the 1,000 yard run won by ten or twelve feet and the time was 2 minutes, and 13 seconds, against the American mark of 2:12 3-5. Ray Conger won the event in 1931—and was pressed to his limit in 2:14 1-10 over the old track.

In the mile-and-seven-eights medley relay, the world indoor record was bettered twice. The time of the winning New York University quartet, 7:29 3-5, was four-fifths of a second under the old mark, while the University of Pennsylvania team, defending champion and record-holder, bettered its own record in finishing second.

ACME SEEKS GAMES

Since it appears generally decided that Waite Hoyte, who broke into baseball as "School Boy Star," became "World Series Ace," and lately "the Mirthful Mortician," is really going to pitch for the Brooklyns this year, one need but add that it is a most fitting climax to his career.

Though a native of Brooklyn, Waite has never had the pleasure—or pain—of being a member of the local nine. This is chiefly due to a slight oversight on the part of one John J. McGraw.

The slight oversight occurred when McGraw, in full possession of Hoyt's services, failed to appreciate them and traded Waite to Rochester, N. Y., for one Oil (nee Earl) Smith, a catcher of no mean ability when behind the plate or trading punches with another athlete.

Hoyt eventually reached New York again by way of Newark, N. J.; Baltimore, Md.; New Orleans, La., and Boston, but this time he was with the Yankees. He helped pitch the Yankees into six world's series to the increasing chagrin of the aforementioned McGraw.

Since those glamorous days, Hoyt has been more or less on the trek. Sent to Detroit in a deal he was turned over to the Philadelphia Athletics by the Tigers last summer after having lost five games and promptly won 10 for Mr. Mack's A.'s

A difference of opinion between the kindly-souled leader of the Athletics and the one-time Boy Wonder resulted in Mr. Mack requesting waivers on Hoyt. Eight American league clubs were not interested but the Brooklyn Nationals were.

The change pleases even Hoyt, for, to him, the National league is almost an unexplored territory. His National league experience with the Giants set some sort of record for minimum duration. He appeared in only one game and then in part of only one inning. He struck out two and allowed no hits—a perfect record.

The Brooklyn Dodgers (or Knights or Kings or whatever the reporters will choose to call the Robinsonless Robins this summer) made a smart move in acquiring Hoyt for the 1932 season.

Waite should be popular, if he wins, in his home town. There is no community in baseballdom which equals Flatbush for red-blooded loyalty to its own, as many squads of visiting athletes have discovered. And Hoyt should win quite a few more ball games. He's only 32.

Though engaged in the undertaking business in the off season, Hoyt is anything but mournful. He is a cheery soul who would enjoy a chuckle at Mr. Mack's expense if the Brooklyns got into the world series next fall and the A.'s didn't.

Has Sunstroke At Pasos Robles

The following Forest players are asked to be at the Polish hall for the game: T. Cooper, B. Cooper, P. Laurell, Mose Mancine, Jack Llewellyn, F. Vigalia, L. Rowe and V. Gallagher.

Ellwood City Pays Tribute To Worth Of "Jim" MacMurdo

Two Hundred Gather At Fete In Honor Of Famous Athlete

Many Notables Attend Banquet — MacMurdo Given Remembrance

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 23.—One of the most impressive events to take place in Ellwood City this year occurred Monday evening at the Ellwood City Country Club when the people of the community assembled to do honor to one of its illustrous sons—Jim MacMurdo, one of Pitt's all-Americans. Nearly 200 were in attendance.

Every class of people was represented at the testimonial which took the form of a banquet, last night. Special guests were "Nordy" Hoffman of Notre Dame who was given recognition by the all-American committee, Paul "Bulldog" Reider, Pitt's captain-elect for next season and ex-New Castle high star, Jesse Quatse, all-American tackle, Eddie Hirschberg, former captain, and Jimmy Clark. All but Reider have played their last year for Pitt.

Upon entering the banquet room many cherished memories were undoubtedly brought back to the guest of honor as he gazed at his former high school coach, chums and teammates, and his college mentor, teammates and many friends in the city at large. All were seated around several tables formed in the shape of a large "E." The table appointments and decorations in the banquet hall were carried out in blue and gold, Pitt's colors.

A big dinner inaugurated the events of the evening. Throughout this, group singing and music by the Mandolin Club were enjoyed.

Elmer S. Greenham, commander of the J. Wilbur Randolph Post of the American Legion of this city which sponsored the testimonial, was chairman of the evening.

After the dinner he introduced Rev. H. D. Maxwell who presided as toastmaster. He stated that it was a rare pleasure to preside at such a gathering of great men and formally welcomed them.

Rev. Maxwell introduced the first speaker of the evening, "Nordy" Hoffman of Notre Dame who played against MacMurdo on two different occasions in the same season. First, the Pitt-Notre Dame game at South Bend and the East-West game at Los Angeles on New Years Hoffman was high in the praise of MacMurdo's athletic prowess and sportsmanship. He told of the tribut paid the latter by Andy Kerr, Colgate coach, who classed MacMurdo and Quatse as the year's best tackles. He praised the treatment given him by Pittsburgh and Ellwood City. In closing he expressed the wish that the fine relationship between Notre Dame and the two Pittsburgh institutions shall always exist.

Burgess Judd C. Turner payed tribute to the fine character of the honor guest and to the fine example of manhood he had set for those who would emulate him. He presented him with a silver key to the city at which time "Big Jim" sincerely thanked his fellow townsmen for the consideration always shown him. He stated that he found it difficult to express his gratitude in words.

Jess Carver, Pittsburgh newswriter, asserted that he has been associated with MacMurdo for four years and has yet to meet a better man.

"Skip" Gougler, Pitt Freshman Coach, impaired him with the same sucess in life as he had been on the gridiron. Each of Jim's teammates present expressed their admiration for him and sorrow upon having to depart at the end of the year.

The highest tribute for MacMurdo came from the principal speaker of the evening Dr. John Bain "Jock" Sutherland, famed Pitt mentor. He announced that he was sympathetic towards Jim, now that the latter has played his last game and will soon leave his "alma mater." He stated that MacMurdo could play any position on the team with his spirit, courage and intelligence. He readily acquired the knack of plays and accepted any changes philosophically, even though something was sacrificed. "My heart was gladened when I beheld Jim in uniform for the first time at Pittsburgh," asserted the speaker. He told of an incident with one of his assistant coaches, who was watching MacMurdo in a short workout and said, "he's the best man we have had here yet including my time." Since then Jim has done everything expected of him. Dr. Sutherland closed by thanking the local Legion for the invitation to this affair.

Fred L. Rentz, publisher, of New Castle the next speaker expressed his satisfaction in coming to this city and his pleasure in being present at such an affair where he could get acquainted with football heroes.

A surprise event occurred when Dr. B. M. Lawther took the floor and after a few remarks Dr. Sutherland and the honor guest were presented with a gift. The latter received a bag of silver which came from his fellow townsmen. Dr. Lawther stated that Jim will have the backing of Ellwood City in any of his future undertakings.

County Detective H. Martin "Peck" Lee former Ellwood High Coach was called upon to deliver the last words. "I am happy to be here with my friends tonight to honor one of our own boys." It Jim goes about life with the same determination that has marked him in football, he can only be a success."

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Dr. C. W. Hayes chairman, Dr. H. S. Gold and Dr. C. B. Bisceglia.

Telephone Service Restored Late Last Night In Ewing Park District

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 23.—After working all day yesterday, employes of the Bell Telephone company completed repairs to a cable beneath the toll bridge leading from the National Tube company to Ewing Park at 10 o'clock last evening.

One hundred telephones in the Ewing Park district were out of service all day Monday as a result, but service was restored as quickly as possible. The task was a difficult one to complete as it was necessary to drag the big cable across the river beneath the bridge.

After tonight they will have only two more games to play, at Ambridge and with Rochester here. The Ambridge game will be played next Thursday instead of Friday, and the Rochester game on Monday.

The locals are strong favorites to repeat their victory over the class B school near New Castle. All the players except Johnson are in good shape for the tussle. Johnson is confined to his home with illness. Two months have passed since Ellwood had defeated Mt. Jackson here to a tune of 23-16. The locals hope to again start on the upward grade with Mt. Jackson. The locals feel well capable now that they are back in the hands of their coach, who has partially recovered from an illness. His starting line-up will probably be the same as formerly. Patriotic Program Is Presented At Park Gate School

PUPILS PRESENT EXCELLENT NUMBER

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 23.—No better occasion of place could be found in this district for the presentation of the American flag by the Ellwood City Council No. 182 of the Fraternal Patriotic Americans than to the Park Gate School yesterday afternoon. The event served a double purpose. Besides the presentation of a beautiful flag to the school the George Washington Bi-Centennial was celebrated in a most impressive manner.

The vicinity of Park Gate was made more prominent and fitting when it was revealed that the first president of our country passed through this district upon completing his survey project for Lord Fairfax. He actually made his home for a period at a place now known as Rock point.

The Park Gate School was filled to capacity making it difficult for the program to be executed. Numbers of people crowded the many windows and blocked the doorways. The New Castle and Wampum Councils of the organization attended in a body. There were many people present from surrounding communities.

Various committees of the lodge and school were well repaid upon observing the fine interest and enthusiasm shown by the large audience in the afternoon's program. The Park Gate School itself had arranged for a special program which was well received. Monday was a holiday for the children and residents of Wayne Township. The flag committee composed of District Deputy Johnathan Jacobs, R. E. Callahan, and O. J. Learsh was responsible for arranging this event.

The program beginning at 2 o'clock was inaugurated with the singing of "America" by the assemblage after which Rev. R. H. Little delivered invocation. The children of the Park Gate School then rendered part of their program. At this time the principal speaker of the day was introduced by Burgess Judd C. Turner, of Ellwood City, who was Congressman J. Howard Swick of Beaver Falls.

Dr. Swick expressed much delight in being invited to participate in this event. He explained that he would much rather be amongst his own people of Lawrence, Beaver, and Butler Counties, than at Washington. He has lived in this district all of his life and taught school just on the outskirts of Ellwood, in North Sewickley. He commended the school children and officials and the F. P. A. for arranging this memorable event. Then the speaker proceeded to honor and immortalize the "Father of Our Country." He told of many interesting incidents and historical facts in the life of George Washington; and of the origin of the flag. He especially pointed out the remarkable character of this great man. With pride the speaker explained what the American Flag stands for.

Dr. Swick urged the people to have faith in Providence to guide them through this period of depression. He predicted relief coming soon and better times. He complimented the F. P. A. and the people upon the fine interest they have shown in the schools, especially upon this day.

Mr. Callahan of the flag committee presented the big new flag to the school which was accepted by Roy Meehan, president of the Wayne Township School board. The latter hoped the flag and the occasion would be an inspiration to the children and people of the community in years to come.

The event came to a conclusion with the raising of the flag with a special ceremony by the Boy and Girl Scouts of this city. As taps were played the crowd watched the flag advance to its lofty position after which the benediction was given by Rev. W. E. Minteer.

The complete program was as follows:

NEW YORK STOCKS

Stocks Hold Gains In Holiday Period

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—A 15-point break in Auburn Auto was the feature of an irregular and dull market this morning.

After receding a point or two, the leading industrials and specialties recovered the bulk of their early losses and the market settled down to a dull and routine affair.

Auburn Auto at 93 showed a drop of 35½ points from last week's high price.

United States Steel dropped off about a point to 47½; American Telephone to 128¾; Westinghouse to 31½. Atchison led the reaction in the rails and dropped off 16 to 81¼. Union Pacific lost a point and fractional losses were recorded for New York Central, New Haven, Baltimore and Ohio, Rock Island and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Wheat sold half a cent higher, and reached a new high on the move, influenced by the strong tone of the Liverpool market. Cotton reacted 4 to 6 points from the best price levels of last week. Liberty and treasury bonds ruled steady, while European bonds were unsettled by fairly heavy offerings. Call money was unchanged at 2½ per cent.

in attempts to reach a settlement under the league covenant.

Fourth—Japan's defensive measures at Shanghai do not infringe article ten of the covenant, pledging league members not to attack the territorial integrity of another league.

Fifth—Japan contends that since she has no territorial designs upon China it is superflous for the league council to call her attention to article ten for this reason she is totally unable to understand the allegation that she has acted in defiance of the covenant.

Sixth—Japan is fully prepared to abide by her obligations under the nine-power pacific treaty to which the United States is also a signatory but deems it improper and inconvenient to enter discussions of its terms with powers that are not parties to the pact, that is, many league members.

Seventh—China cannot be considered an organized state within the meaning of the league covenant.

Eighth—Japan earnestly hopes the powers will make every effort "to induce China to refrain from the aggressiveness she has displayed in the past five months."

Covering Letter.

In asking Paul-Boncour to submit the reply to the powers concerned, Yoshisawa attached a covering letter.

This communication deplored the fact that deliberations on the Sino-Japanese dispute were being conducted by a "select committee." This referred to the so-called "committee of twelve," the council minus Japan and China, which has been handling the controversy.

The procedure adopted by the council, the covering letter declared, was not in accord with the spirit of the covenant which implies that in all cases discussions shall be conducted in the presence of all members of the council.

Such ex parte deliberations, Yoshisawa concluded, resulted in unfortunate confusion in the public's mir

Looks Like a Cinch for Uncle Sam

If the foreign teams coming here to compete in the Olympic games at Los Angeles had any hopes of carrying off track and field honors, these hopes must have been well nigh blasted on receipt of the news of three new world records scored within the past few weeks by these stalwart candidates for Uncle Sam's team. Gene Venzke, Pottstown, Pa., high school youth, is the sensation of the indoor season by reason of his record-breaking mile of 4:10. Gene is going out for the 1,500 metre mark soon. Leo Sexton, New York A. C. shot putter, a comparative unknown, startled the athletic world by putting the 16-ppund shot 52 feet 8⅜ inches beating the world record by 1 foot 2¾ inches. The third record breaker is George Spitz, of Flushing, N. Y., who leaped 6 feet 8½ inches in the running high jump at the Boston games. Pretty good for a couple of weeks. And the boys are just starting.

Evict Hitlerite From Reichstag

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—Paul Goebbels, one of Adolf Hitler's most active lieutenants in the National Socialist cause, was evicted late today from the Reichstag for slandering President Paul Von Hindenburg.

Goebbels' speech precipitated a furore in which Socialists and Nazis indulged in an exchange of fisticuffs. The session was adjourned for more than a half hour to restore order.

The speaker was charged with intolerable slander for declaring that "Hindenburg supported political deserters and the dirty Boulevard Press."

SECRET AISLES IN DETROIT BUILDING

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 23.—Detroit's 34-year-old postoffice, now demolished to make way for a new $5,600,000 Federal structure, contained secret passageways for government spies it is revealed.

Plans of the building have been turned over to the University of Michigan, for its collection of plans of famous old buildings. The blueprints show numerous hidden passageways in the walls, secret entrances and exits, as well as peepholes in mason work to facilitate observation of government workers.

The old postoffice was built during the threatening pre-Spanish-American war days which may account for the secret features. Proximity of an alien country may also have induced government architects to include the tunnels.

The building was considered a remarkable example of nineteenth century architecture. Its main entrance was considered masterful style.

She figures that during the past 39 years she has taken 31,104,000 stitches in the quilts alone. She says she "would rather quilt than eat."

Tad Shields Makes Stirring Address At Junior Order Banquet

R. D. Snyder Acts As Toastmaster At Patriotic Affair Last Night

Modern writers who tear down the characters of our heroes with revised pen sketches of what the great may have been were scored by Tad E. Shields of New Bedford, former county commissioner, during an address at the ninth annual Washington Day banquet of the Junior Order, United American Mechanics, a patriotic society, in the Epworth M. E. church last night.

Shields, in decrying the mudslinging at heroes like Washington, declared that such stories as the one about the cherry tree and the hatchet are aporcryphal, but added that he would welcome a moratorium of mudslinging at great Americans.

Snyder Toastmaster

The affair was the most successful in the history of Castle Council, No. 365, J. O. U. A. M. R. D. Snyder, past councilor of the order in this city, and well known in local lodge affairs, was the toastmaster of the evening.

Shields in his talk, "The Life and Times of George Washington", gave a sparkling description of the life of the "Cincinnatus of the West", who, the speaker early pointed out, "was just like any other boy in the Virginia colony."

The stories of Washington that are doubted most, Shields said, are attributed to the first President's most popular biographer, Parson Weems, who did more than anyone else to popularize Washington to the minds of the children of countless generations.

"If Parson Weems did nothing else in his life than write about Washington's youth, he certainly accomplished his purpose," the speaker said.

"Very little is known of Washington's early life, probably because there was little unusual to relate. The story of throwing the silver dollar across the Potomac and the hatchet and cherry tree and numerous other tales are quite apocryphal, having been coined by Parson Weems. Washington probably did not pervert the truth, but Rev. Weems could and did pervert the truth. Washington as a boy was probably no different from any other boy of his day. No doubt he played hookey from school whenever he had a chance.

"I may doubt the cherry tree story, but the story has been dear to our hearts. It has been taught to our children. It was told to me and I have told it to children, who will tell it to their children.

"Yet some of our modern writers have become mudslingers at our national heroes. If I could accomplish it, I would call for a national moratorium against mudslinging at our great men."

Heroes in History

Pointing to our history, the speaker said it was filled with real flesh and blood heroes and heroines:

"It is not necessary for any bard to create pen characters to play the role of heroes for the boys and girls of our land, for our history is replete with real flesh and blood heroes and heroines from the very genesis of our country to the present time.

"No age fully understands itself. Lapse of time is necessary for a true perspective. It appears to be almost an utter impossibility for our great men to escape being misrepresented and maligned as they live and move about upon the stage of action. In order to secure a true conception of our great men we have to wait until all bitter partisan strife and animosities recede into history, and by the time that transpires we meet with another difficulty that tends to obscure our vision in our attempt to arrive at a proper estimate of the makers of history. As they recede into history the tendency is to place them upon a pedestal and look upon them as super-heroic figures. We almost resolve them into mythical characters."

Recalling the scene that was presented on February 22, 1732, when Washington was born, the speaker declared:

"At the time this event transpired it was not considered worthy of mention. The picture that meets our gaze is that of a very unpretentious frontier home, located in the wild of Westmoreland county in the colony of Virginia. This home is located near the banks of the Potomac river."

Saying that it was almost a universal belief at this time that the birth of a son in a home, who was destined to become famous, was heralded by some miraculous event, such as made famous the birth of Alexander the Great and other heroes, the speaker said that no temple was destroyed, nor did a star appear in the heavens when the child was born to Augustine and Mary Ball Washington.

"As far as we know, this advent just marked the birth of another baby boy in the Virginia colony. I doubt very much whether the census enumerator made any note of the birth of this boy. If any record were made at all, it was made in the Washington family Bible and reads as follows: 'George Washington, born February 22, 1732'."

Closing Remarks

In his closing remarks the speaker emphasized the importance of observing the bi-centennial of the birth of Washington with a view of making it a day of memories. The celebration is not to confer honor upon Washington, for Washington has long since "belonged to the ages."

"The problems of our country today are just as momentous and just as complex as were the problems faced in Washington's day, and the proper solution is just as essential to the perpetuity of our free institutions. Let us emulate the example of Washington and the heroes of 1776 and face the rising and not the setting sun. Let us look forward, not backward."

Shields paid a tribute to Sol Bloom, associate director of the George Washington bi-centennial commission, who was responsible for the nationwide success of the mighty memorial to the father of his country.

The invocation to the ninth annual dinner was delivered by Rev. Samuel Maxwell, pastor of the Epworth M .E. church. The Epworth church Boy Scouts of troop 10 presented the colors and pled allegiance to the flag. One of the highlights of the program was the singing of "Father of the Land We Love" by Mrs. Charles G. Harris. George M. Cohan, the New York song writer, had been commissioned by the government to compose this song for the occasion of the bi-centennial celebration.

The Book-Leyde quartet presented several selections. Individual solos and readings were given by Trevor West and Williard McCown. Thomas Lukens gave several humorous sketches and Dan Heitger was the pianist.

Tony Morelli Dies After Being Found In Room Unconscious

Death Occurs Early This Morning—Demise Due To Illness

Found in an unconscious and dying condition, as a result of illness in his room, at 22 South Mill street, about seven o'clock last night, a man known as Tony Morelli, aged 46 years, and whose correct name is said to be Anthony Maiello, died about 1:08 a. m. today in the Jameson Memorial hospital, to which place he was removed, after entrance had been gained to his room, Monday evening. The body has been removed to the Burke Funeral Home, 319 North Jefferson street, pending its removal later to the home of his sister, Mrs. Rachel Leonardo, 210 South Jefferson street. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been completed.

Shortly before seven o'clock last night, Charles L. Reynolds, who conducts the Little Hotel, came to the police department and asked assistance in gaining admission to the room occupied by Morelli, the door of which was locked and in which the sound of a person gasping for breath could be heard.

According to Mr. Reynolds, Morelli apparently quite sick, had gone to his room about nine o'clock Sunday night. He had locked his door and efforts to get in and inquire as to his condition had been found impossible.

Officers Ralph Criswell and Robert Hanna went to the place and found the door locked. Finally another guest of the place, went into an adjoining room and managed to go along a ledge from the window of that room to the room of Morelli and gain admittance. He unlocked the door and the police officers and Mr. Reynolds entered and found Morelli in an unconscious condition on his bed.

A physician was called and found Morelli in a serious condition and had him removed in an ambulance to the Jameson Memorial hospital, where he died a few hours later.

Morelli was born in Italy and had been a resident of this country since he was fourteen years of age. He had resided here the greater part of his life since coming to this country. He only recently returned from California, where he is said to have been visiting another sister. He has been in ill health recently and his death was due to causes that had been effecting his health.

The reports are of the Pennsylvania State Highway Department, which also reports four inches of snow along the Delaware in Monroe county, and a similar snowfall in Luzerne county. The temperature in the state ranged from 16 to 32 degrees. The highway department employed 300 men today in 87 crews. Fourteen crews were plowing snow and others were distributing cinders on roads."
